CAPITAL SEIZURE IN SIGHT

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, May 26—A new insurgent advance was reported today to have shoved General Emilio Mola's front lines within eight miles of Bilbao.

The advance, an insurgent communique from the Salamanca headquarters reported, carried the northern insurgent offensive to Lemona, eight miles southeast of the besieged provincial capital, and halfway between Amorebieta and Galdacano, the next objective.

The line of attack takes the insurgents' line inland from the sea into a sweeping arc extending from the Bay of Biscay south to near Ochandiano.

Insurgent headquarters said the civil population of Lemena had been evacuated before Mola's troops reached the town, most of the residents fleeing toward Bilbao. A defending garrison, described as a force mostly of Asturian miners, was reported still holding out in fortified parts of the town.

The advices said the government vessel Le Gazpi was hit by insurgent aerial bombs in the Mediterranean and stranded on the beach at Cullera. Many crew members were reported injured.

Careful consolidation of gains have prepared the way for Mola's final test.

Franco Protests Over Delegate At Geneva

SALAMANCA, Spain, May 26 — General Francisco Franco today dispatched a lengthy protest to the League of Nations over the presence of a delegate at Geneva invested with the title of "representative of Spain."

The general declared the rightists were the true representatives of Spain, and that the Valencia delegate is the ambassador "of the anarchy and crime of Red Spain."

Franco claimed the insurgents are masters of two-thirds of Spain.

ROOSEVELT TO CONTINUE FIGHT ON HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, May 26.—President Roosevelt renewed his plea for enactment of his United States court reorganization bill last night with an assertion an old child labor decision must be reversed if his new labor legislation is to be declared constitutional.

Expressing pleasure and gratification at the court's decision upholding the Social Security Act, the President told reporters he hoped the tribunal would cling to the same human point of view in cases yet to be decided.

The President's new labor legislation not only would bar child labor products from interstate commerce, but also the products of employers who use "oppressive" labor practices.

Both Barkerville and Wells are in the interior of the province.

League Likely To Lose All Power As Peace Group

By GRANT DEXTER
London Bureau of The Edmonton Bulletin and Winnipeg Free Press

LONDON, May 26—As information seeps through the veil of secrecy surrounding the inner circle of the Imperial Conference it is becoming more and more apparent that the discussions on foreign policy and the League of Nations are assuming greater significance, and there is emerging an outline of a policy, which if pressed home, will destroy the league as an effective agency for maintaining world peace and banish collective security completely from the world.

It appears that the British government, purely in an objective way and without expressing an opinion, is making out a crushing case against a punitive league. The effectiveness and desirability of branding nations as aggressor nations and of applying sanctions against them is being challenged by means of exhaustive analysis of Britain's experience in the Italo-Abyssinian case.

It would appear that the Conservative element in the British government, which is dominant, and which has been working unrestingly and effectively to destroy the League ever since the last British elections, has decided that the Imperial conference can be of the greatest service in furthering its aims.

The next step is to draw the teeth of the League.

This would be extremely dangerous, if not impossible, in the present temper of British public opinion, which in the past six months has rallied strongly to the League and collective security.

TO TAKE LEAD

But if the British government could say that the empire is unwilling to support a punitive league, it might make it possible for the British representatives to

DELISLE HIGH PUPILS PLEAD FOR PRINCIPAL

Students Stage Demonstration Demanding Reinstatement of Teacher

DELISLE, Sask., May 26—With banners bearing the words "We want Hathway" and "Down With Tyrannies," striking pupils of Delisle high and public schools marched through the streets of the town Tuesday, singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The demonstration was on behalf of the school principal, W. N. Hathway, who was notified by the trustee board last Saturday that his services would be dispensed with at the end of the term, for failure to co-operate with the rest of the teaching staff and setting a bad example to the children by smoking.

PRESENT PETITION

After their parade, the children, led by Helen Clark, 20-year-old grade 12 pupil and president of the literary society, and Basil Cyr, 19, past president, presented a petition to the trustees. They asked the board to furnish the "legitimate reason" for the dismissal of the popular headmaster, backed up by satisfactory proof.

Chairman Cliff Anderson took the position under consideration, but another trustee, W. J. Loucks, former Rosetown M.P., declared he would have nothing to do with it.

M.L.A. IS MEMBER

Nat. Given, M.L.A., is also a member of the board.

"But we have the majority of the town behind us," declared Mr. Cyr after the demonstration.

Forty-three high school pupils, representing 100 per cent, and most of the grade seven and eight pupils refused to attend classes Tuesday and declared they would not return until the requirements in the petition had been complied with.

CALGARY MAN CHEATS DEATH IN LONG FALL

Mayo Hospital Patient Tells Experiences to Man Who Fell 128 Feet

ROCHESTER, Minn., May 26.—One man who fell seven stories and another who dropped 128 feet are comparing notes of their respective miraculous escapes while in Rochester to receive treatment at Mayo clinic.

Oddly, the men are registered at the same hotel and are treated at the same Mayo hospital.

It was in 1925, at the age of 14, that Evans had his accident. Engaged in painting on the top floor of an apartment building, he lost his balance and started earthward. One last desperate effort to save himself left his fingernails on the ledge—then the plunge down.

HIT CLOTHESLINE

But death had not reckoned with a washerwoman's clothesline. Seven feet from the ground, Evans said, he still was falling head first. At that moment he struck the clothesline with his shoulders and was spun around so that he landed on his feet.

A few bones were broken, but Evans has lived to tell about the experience.

And four years before Evans took his fall, McIntosh tumbled 128 feet from a derrick in the east Texas oil fields.

FALL BROKEN

While the distance he fell was slightly greater than Evans' plunge, his fall was broken occasionally by steel girths which braced the derrick.

McIntosh broke one vertebra. Both he and Evans are suffering after-effects, but both are happy to be alive.

In a serious aside, McIntosh said the irony of the way things happen was that he had a brother who fell over backward on a chair, broke his neck and died.

Basque Police Kill Unidentified Spy Map Carrier

BILBAO, May 26.—Insurgent air raiders were reported to have brought down a French passenger plane today at Sopelana, nine miles north-west of here. The reports said the plane was completely wrecked and the pilot injured. No passengers were reported hurt, however. The insurgent squadron was described as comprised of German-built planes.

BILBAO, Spain, May 26—A foreign consul, it was learned today, has been shot as an insurgent by the Basque government. Neither the consul nor his country was identified but it was learned he was caught carrying military maps out of beleaguered Bilbao.

Basque secret police, who had trailed the man for weeks, arrested him as he was about to board a British destroyer enroute to France.

As the consul went through the police lines at the pier, authorities demanded to see the contents of his brief case. He pleaded diplomatic immunity but the Basques contended that under international law consular representatives were not entitled to that protection.

The foreign representative insisted a search of his person would be an insult to his country and resisted until the Basque special police tore the brief case from his hands.

In it they found the military maps, marked with their gun positions. A two-week trial resulted in a death sentence and the consul was shot at dawn without a protest from his country.

Basque officials, battling the steady drive of the northern insurgent army, described the execution as the end of only one case involving a well organized spy plot among foreign representatives.

Grain Board Head Says Government Should Eye 'Change

By SAM G. ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA, May 26—Declaring a wheat board as at present constituted could not function successfully, James R. Murray, Winnipeg, chairman of the Canadian wheat board, told the Turgeon Royal Grain Commission today that federal government should supervise the Winnipeg grain exchange.

He also said the government should extend aid to farmers in times of emergency and create a wheat institute to promote sales.

A government board could do nothing in selling wheat that contract wheat pools could not do, he added in declaring there was no good reason why the open market system and contract pools could not operate in the best interests of producers.

Questioned by Hon. J. L. Ralston, commission counsel, Mr. Murray said the "marketing system is one thing and the protection or bonus desired by and necessary for pro-

Numerous search parties, hampered by impassable roads after heavy rains, have combed the woods and swamps on the edge of a forest reserve, egged on by the frantic parents. The searchers are under direction of Constable Butler, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Pelly detachment.

When the cabinet meets again next week, Neville Chamberlain will be prime minister of Great Britain, and Baldwin will, in his own words, have "passed into the shades," probably to become an Earl in recognition of his service to the empire.

Last night he made history by entertaining the King and Queen at dinner at his official residence at No. 10, the first time a premier has been so honored by his sovereigns in almost a quarter century.

Quintuplets Show Their Great Love For Mother, Father

By A. E. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

(Turn to Page 3 for New Pictures.)

CALLANDER, Ont., May 26—Shrieking and laughing in wild enthusiasm, the Dionne quintuplets demonstrated today that all the fences money and fame have built around them failed to prevent full development of normal love for their parents.

In a surprise visit to her famous daughters two days before their third birthday, 27-year-old Elzire Dionne was almost swept off her feet by five wildly yelling babies who clung to her skirts and begged to be taken in her arms.

A short while later they bounded into the arms of Oliva Dionne in a welcome that only five gay young ladies like the Quints could provide for a father. Neither visit was unusual. The Dionnes visit their children several times a week. But it was unusual that they were witnessed by outsiders.

HUNDREDS SEE EVENT

Hundreds were in the visitors' gallery when Mrs. Dionne paid her call. Marie was lying flat on her stomach atop a five-foot climbing platform in the Quint playground frightening onlookers who don't know how well the Quints climb.

Yvonne and Cecile were crashing their kiddie cars head-on in a game that frequently sent them tumbling to a cement sidewalk and Emilie and Annette were disputing ownership of a toy truck with frequent squeals of exasperation.

Then, at the gate leading into their playground, a stout dark-haired woman appeared with two tall boys and a girl just a little bigger than the Quints.

Emilie and Annette quit scrapping.

RUSH TO MOTHER

Yvonne and Cecile abandoned their game and Marie touched only the tips of her toes to the rungs as she dropped nimbly from the climbing platform.

Yvonne yelled "mama!" the rest shrieked in delight and all five ran across the playground to surround their mother. Four of them hung on her skirts while she caught Yvonne under the arms and raised her high in the air to kiss her.

Bilbao To Face Final Tests As Rebels Advance

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, May 26—General Emilio Mola's army consolidated its gains today in careful preparation for a final test of Bilbao's fortifications.

Like a bull advancing slowly on a wounded matador, the insurgents made sure of the position of their rear-guard before shoving onward.

Mola's legions rested while his engineers rushed consolidation operations around Yurre and Amorebieta on the fringe of the fiercely contested sector southeast of Bilbao.

Basque authorities in the crowded Biscayan capital still hoped that enough fighting planes would come from the central Spanish government at Valencia to facilitate a successful last stand on the semi-circle of steel and concrete entrenchments on the north, east and south of Bilbao.

Minister of the Interior Julian Zugazagoita said at Valencia the insurgents could no more break into Bilbao than they broke into Madrid where the government's and Frano's forces have been locked in trench warfare on the outskirts since early November.

QUEEN MARY IS SHOWERED WITH REMEMBRANCES

LONDON, May 26—Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner, together with the prime ministers and high commissioners of the other dominions, called at Marlborough House today to offer congratulations to Queen Mary on her 70th birthday.

EIGHT TONS OF SUPPLIES FLOWN TO POLAR PARTY

RUSS AIRMEN REPEAT FINE FLYING FEAT

Scientists All Set For Staying Winter Through At Extreme North

By CHARLES P. NUTTER
Associated Press Foreign Staff

MOSCOW, May 26—Two of three transport planes reported today they had landed near the North Pole with eight tons of food and equipment to sustain the lives and facilitate the studies of four air trail pioneers. One of the ships succeeded in finding the Soviet Union's polar outpost—a dot on a vista of ice fields—but the other was forced to land away from the camp and about 12½ miles from the pole.

MOSCOW, May 26—Three Soviet planes bearing a year's supplies for the Russan north pole base completed their flight to the top of the earth today, circling the camp seven hours after taking off from Rudolf Island for their 560 mile Arctic flight.

The fleet of three planes sighted the camp established by Dr. Otto J. Schmidt on a floating ice floe in the polar seas at six a.m. Rudolf Island time (five p.m. M.S.T.) and immediately prepared to land.

MOSCOW TO U.S.

The commander of the expedition, which it is hoped will eventually make possible a commercial air route from Moscow over the pole to the United States, radioed the news of the feat back to Moscow as soon as he had achieved his objective.

The message proclaimed in a matter of fact manner that the polar fleet had hit the camp site squarely on the nose after an uneventful journey.

WEATHER GOOD

Weather at the North Pole post, the report declared, was good and the planes were circling to get the drift of the wind before settling down on the special runway scooped out of the Polar ice.

Blizzards, fogs and generally bad weather had kept the three planes grounded at Rudolf Island since Saturday.

Their mission was to carry a year's supplies and the portable hut in which four men plan to spend a year on the ice at the Pole.

At the controls were Vassily Molokoff, A. D. Alexieff and I. P. Mazuruk, all veterans of Arctic flying. Crews of the three planes were believed to total about 15 men.

CARRY EIGHT TONS

The pilots planned to spread out fanwise as they approached their goal and search for the flag-plane and the advance party of 13 headed by Prof. Otto J. Schmidt.

Their cargoes totalled more than eight tons. It was expected they would remain at the Polar base only long enough to unload and help the wintering party of four men store the supplies away.

Ivan Papanin, veteran of Arctic exploration, is chief of the quartet who will remain on the Polar ice until the spring of 1935.

All four planes are expected to fly back to Rudolf Island. Three of them eventually will fly back to Moscow. The fourth, with Mazuruk in command, will remain at Rudolf Island ready to carry aid to the polar quartet in case of emergency.

The camp is estimated to be now about 30 miles from the pole. The landing was only 13 miles from the top, but the floe has been drifting in the general direction of the North American continent. It moves about 20 kilometres (12½ miles) a day, but not in a straight line.

Cowboys Assemble For Knight Funeral At Hayward Rodeo

HAYWARD, Calif., May 26.—Scores of cowboys gathered here today for funeral services for Pete Knight, champion bronco buster, from Crossfield, Alta., who was trampled to death at the Hayward rodeo last Sunday.

A singing cowboy came here from Los Angeles to sing mournful tunes of the range and corral. Burial will be in Lone Tree cemetery here.

Lightning Bolt Kills Two Soldiers

British Freighter Struck, Damaged By Rebel Bomb

ALMERIA, Spain, May 26.—The 1,495-ton British freighter Great End was struck and severely damaged by a bomb dropped by an insurgent plane during a raid on this Spanish government port early today.

Twenty-five explosive bombs were dropped during the raid. The bomb which hit the freighter was the only one causing serious damage. There were no casualties.

A gaping hole was torn in the Great End's hull, but it was kept afloat by its emergency pumps.

The Great End is owned by the Newbegin Steam Shipping Company Limited, and was built in 1920 at Southampton.

LEAGUE MAY BE SHORN OF REAL POWER

take a lead in revising the covenant at Geneva this autumn, and such revision would be along the lines so ardently desired by the British Conservatives.

The issue would be put out here as a choice between the Empire or the League, and the revision would consist of reducing the League to a consultative body without power to act against aggressors. Once the League is thus emasculated the real objectives of the British Conservatives would become attainable.

These are recognition of the Italian conquest of Abyssinia and the removal from Germany of all danger of League action if the Nazis proceed with their mission of conquest in middle Europe. Only in this way do British Conservatives believe that war is escapable.

TORY GAME PLAYED

The Conservative press is playing this game to the limit. The Morning Post today hints at dark revelations by the British government at the secret sessions of the Imperial Conference. League skeletons of the most unexpected and revolting kind are said to have been revealed to the delegates and dominions statesmen are reported to be profoundly shocked and disturbed.

Actually it is believed that only Canada is agreeable to the conversion of the League into a consultative body, as Australia, New Zealand and South Africa are reported supporting the present League and opposing any recognition of Mussolini's conquest of Ethiopia.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King, it is learned, is advancing an identical policy both with respect to imperial defence and the League. He desires to ensure that the Canadian parliament will have a free hand to debate and decide what action Canada may take in any emergency that may arise. So long as the League covenant stands, Canada, it is argued, has a blank cheque outstanding at Geneva. Therefore Premier King's policy fits nearly into the British policy as outlined, although for reasons quite different from those held by the British Conservatives.

AUSTRALIA'S POLICY

These foreign policy discussions are uncompleted and will be resumed when Anthony Eden returns from the continent.

From the outset of the conference Australia has urged a unified empire foreign policy. She has taken the ground that the dominions should be prepared to offer counsel and, if need be, reinforce that counsel with assistance. Canada and South Africa, on the other hand, take a stand against centralization. They hold that common protection can best be secured, not by centralization but by each empire unit taking full responsibility for its own defence and working in harmony with other empire units.

Canada is opposed to the creation in London of a council empowered to prepare common defence schemes committing the whole commonwealth. It is opposition to any such idea which has led Canada in the past to refrain from attendance at meetings of the Imperial defence committees.

SAFE FROM ATTACK

Hopes were expressed today that the new committee on munition supplies may become a permanent body. Points before it will include the buliding of empire arms factories in the dominions, which would be safe from air attack and would be able to supply Britain in wartime.

Measures will also be advanced to ensure that arms equipment shall, so far as possible, be interchangeable.

The naval correspondent of the Daily Telegraph predicts that cooperation between the Royal Navy and the naval forces of the dominions will be carried a stage further.

The China squadron will be reinforced with capital ships. Defences at Hong Kong will be modernized, but Singapore will be the principal base and the Pacific fleet will be joined from time to time by ships of the Australian navy and New Zealand for combined training.

"Considerable expansion of the Australian navy is foreshadowed."

"All principal ports of the commonwealth are being refortified. Important naval works are planned at Port Darwin, the northernmost base. It is hoped the New Zealand division will be strengthened but it is understood South Africa does not intend to extend her present commitments."

Revenue of the city license department to date this year totals $49,656 as compared to $48,820 for the corresponding period last year. Licenses issued follow, totals for 1937 and 1936 being given in that order: General licenses, 1,914, 1,889; bicycle licenses, 3,053, 2,577; dog tags, 2,362, 2,100

FAWCETT'S PAL IN OAKALLA ESCAPE TAKEN

Blackie Campbell in Tacoma Hospital With Six Police Slugs

TACOMA, Wash., May 26—Bullet-shattered and near death, Vernon "Blackie" Campbell lay under police guard in hospital here today, his two-months freedom, won in an escape from Oakalla, B.C., prison farm, at an end.

Shot six times in an early morning gun battle with Tacoma police, the 23-year-old Hawaiian who broke from the Burnaby, B.C., institution with Gordon Fawcett last April 4, was seriously wounded.

He was captured shortly after dawn when four patrol officers cornered him in South Tacoma Park. His capture followed by less than two hours his holdup of a Seattle apartment - hotel clerk which netted him $10.90.

Six pistol slugs entered his body and arms as officers fired on him. One bullet lodged just below the heart.

Campbell and Fawcett escaped April 4 from Oakalla prison in Burnaby, B.C. Subsequent investigation by British Columbia police officials indicated the pair had received help from inside the jail in effecting their escape through the old elevator shaft now used as an execution chamber. Fawcett is still at large.

BUSMEN QUIZ NOT SATISFIED HEALTH PERILED

LONDON, May 26.—The full report of the Court of Inquiry that examined conditions surrounding the current strike of 25,000 bus conductors and drivers shows the court was not convinced the men's complaint concerning injury to health, through severe schedules, was proved.

It expressed the opinion a case had been made for a further, immediate investigation by a properly qualified body into the charge, a main issuse in the strike begun May 1.

The report said speeding up of schedules on London streets since 1927 was a factor intensifying the busmen's work but "it does not appear a practical remedy for that intensification is to be found in a general reduction of the speed of services."

Girl Chops Her Mother to Pieces: Then Makes Love

Wightman

Each prepared to blame the crime on the other in a desperate effort to evade the electric chair, Gladys MacKnight, 17-year-old girl athlete, and her one-time sweetheart, Donald Wightman, 18, went on trial in Jersey City, N.J., on charges of hacking her mother to death with a hatchet. Donald is pictured here as the jury was chosen. Miss MacKnight, neatly dressed and poker-faced as always, is shown below.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., May 26—The red haired boy friend of 17-year-old Gladys MacKnight told a jury yesterday she chopped her own mother to death with a hatchet and then made love to him to persuade him to shoulder the blame.

GLADYS

A lanky, six-foot choir boy, Donald Wightman, 19, testifying at their joint murder trial, made blunt denials to the girl's defence: "Donald did it."

The slim Gladys snuggled over to him as they sat parked in a shady lane in the automobile in which they fled the Bayonne house where lay the body of Mrs. Helen MacKnight, a native of West Bathurst, N.B., July 31, 1936, the youth related.

"She began to sob a little," he went on quietly. "She said it would be nice—it would prove my love—if I would go back and take the blame."

Embarrassed, he toyed with a handkerchief as he described how he succumbed to her pleas and her caress.

"I told her I was afraid I couldn't lie well enough to go through with it.

"She said there wasn't anything to remember, that I should just say her mother caught us petting and came at us with a knife.

"I said to Gladys: 'If you let me kiss you once more, I'll go through with it'."

She gave him that "one more kiss," he said, and he went back and "confessed" in the way she had instructed him.

The story the boy said Gladys told him to tell was the same one she told over and over again in her four days in the witness chair. She repeated it unwaveringly for the last time this noon, insisting, "Donald did it," as cross examination ended without shaking her on any major point.

Boys Shooting at Powder House Blown to Pieces

SCOTTDALE, Pa., May 26.—Three boys were blown to bits today in an explosion that demolished a dynamite warehouse near Pine Tree, two miles from this Westmoreland county coal town.

Investigations tentatively identified the boys as Isaac Secrist, Boyd Long and William Stull, ranging in age from 14 to 18 years, all of Scottdale. Coroner's officers delayed making the identifications positive pending further inquiry.

The bodies, mutilated and unrecognizable, were found about 50 feet from the twisted timbers of the old frame building which had been used for storing blasting powder sold to nearby coal mines.

A huge crater marked the site of the building. Investigators found a rifle near one of the bodies and concluded the boys had been using the powder cache for a target.

The blast shook this town and shattered windows in hundreds of homes and in many stores.

M'PHERSON IS SILENT OVER WIRE CONTENTS

Dr. J. L. McPherson, acting chairman of the Social Credit Board, on Wednesday continued to decline to disclose text of communications between the Board and Glen L. MacLachlan, its chairman, who is in England negotiating with Major Clifford H. Douglas regarding establishment of Social Credit in this province.

Asked if the board was paying the expenses of the two experts whom Major Douglas proposes to send over here to conduct an investigation, Dr. McPherson said the Board had no money and was not voted any by the legislature. The Social Credit consolidating measure, passed in April by the legislature, provides that board expenditures will be ratified by the government.

The board held a meeting on Wednesday morning, but following adjournment of same, neither Dr. McPherson nor any of the members present would discuss matters brought up for review.

wind the moment it lifted off the waters in brilliant sunlight and droned into the harbor at Hamilton, Bermuda, four hours and 54 minutes later.

The British Imperial Airways boat of 20 tons encountered headwinds on its trip from Hamilton to the harbor here, and settled its silver-hued hull into the water after five hours and 46 minutes of flying time.

"Without incident," read the reports of Capt. Harold E. Gray, of Pan America's "Bermuda Clipper," and Capt. William Neville Cumming of Imperial Airways' "Cavalier."

All in all, skippers of the big, four-engined flying parlor-cars looked on the flight as routine. The Cavalier, flying, as did the Bermuda Clipper, by dead reckoning, came directly over the towering spires of Manhattan before ruddering eastward over Long Island.

TALKED TO EACH OTHER

The skippers talked to each other at about the half way point on their flights, exchanging greetings by radio, but their respective altitudes—Gray flew at 8,000 feet and Cumming at 1,000—prevented their sighting each other.

The visits to Bermuda and the American mainland marked the first time regular passenger transport airplanes of the two countries ever had landed in the other's territory.

The Bermuda-New York service, which may utilize Charleston, S.C., and Baltimore as alternate termini, probably will begin regular schedule in June, it was said unofficially. Imperial Airways and Pan-American will operate in concert, but their services will be separate.

HIGH RIVER, Alta., May 26—Fred Russenberg, pilot of the barnstorming airplane which crashed at North Battleford, had made his home here since last Christmas. He learned to fly at Medicine Hat and had been a pilot there for about five years.

Russenberg was employed as an instructor by the Brisbane Aviation Company's flying school here. The manager of the High River branch, H A. Sharp, accompanied him when he left for Manitoba to start a barnstorming tour three weeks ago. Headquarters of the aviation company are in Vancouver.

WHEAT BOARD HEAD PLEADS SUPERVISION

ducers is another separate and direct thing. Price protection of insurance for our wheat farmers must come from some source outside any marketing system."

CORRECT FUNCTION

In brief Mr. Murray said:

1—A wheat board such as provided for in the present act cannot function successfully. The initial price rarely would suit both producer and parliament and the board would face difficulty in uncertainty of amount of deliveries to the board and criticisms, some political.

2—A wheat board taking wheat at a fixed price with the government bearing the loss or taking the profit would have a better chance of success although it too would be subject to "exigencies of politics."

3—A compulsory wheat board without a future market operating would as long as prices were good, have a chance of satisfying producers who believed in a government board. It could not survive "condemnation of producers" who opposed such a system if prices declined.

4—There is no "good reason for believing the open market system with a contract pool operated by farmer co-operatives" will not successfully market ,wheat abroad and make the best returns to producers. A government board could do nothing a pool could not do and a pool had some advantages.

5—The dominion government should institute some system of supervision of the futures market, possibly under jurisdiction of the board of grain commissioners.

6—An organization such as a wheat institute should be organized and permanently endowed to carry on and extend the publicity work now being done in Britain by the wheat board to develop wheat sales.

7—In the event of a recurrence of wheat surpluses such as experienced in recent years with consequent low prices, then the government should assist the farmers to help them in maintaining the wheat industry on a sound basis.

MARKETS LOST

Canada had lost markets through increased production in wheat importing countries due to bonusing of growers, etc., and in bringing big crops, said Mr. Murray. Canada contributed by not being as willing as she might have been to meet the competition of other exporting countries.

He was "very definitely" of the opinion another reason was that Canada did not purchase sufficient from European countries that previously were buying Canadian wheat. Freer exchange of merchandise was required, he said.

Mr. Ralston said the suggestion had been made during the January-July period of 1936 that those who had purchased wheat from the wheat board had made money on the wheat.

The board sold wheat if the price was satisfactory and did not ask questions about buyers, said Mr. Murray.

ONLY ONE WAY

The Wheat Board act told the board to sell wheat and use existing facilities, said Mr. Murray. The act never said the board should not sell to "bears" or "shorts." If it was intended the board should select its buyers, then the act should have said so, Mr. Murray contended. Nobody knew if the buyers from the board made money and the only way to prevent speculation would have been to sell to bakers and insist they make bread right away, he said.

Council Favors Plan Medical Service for Civic Relief Cases

City council Tuesday night authorized commissioners to enter into an agreement with the Edmonton Academy of Medicine for medical care of relief cases, providing terms were satisfactory to the city. In its original offer, which was rejected several months ago by a majority of council, the Academy offered to provide medical attention for relief cases at a flat charge of about $25,000 a year.

As 1936 relief medical costs totalled approximately $29,000, a contract with the Academy would reduce expenditure providing there was about the same amount of illness this year as last.

CITY BILLED

At the present time, unemployed are allowed to call in their own physicians, the city being billed for the service. Under the Academy's plan, the work would be distributed between its members, who would be paid on the basis of the service rendered

A grant of $250 was passed by council to cover the city's expenditures in connection with the annual convention of the Union of Alberta Municipalities which will be held at the Macdonald hotel June 10 and 11. Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C., has been invited to deliver the opening address, and Aldermen J. W. Fry, J. T. McCreath and Walter Clevely are the city's official delegates to the convention.

"SHANTY-TOWN"

Evacuation of residents of Grierson Dump's "shanty-town" sheduled to start June 1 will be postponed until fall, it was decided by council following consideration of a petition from dump dwellers. Occupants of the make-shift homes, who were asked to move because of the lack of sanitary services, said the postponement would give them an opportunity to find new homes. They promised to "clean our places up so as to comply with the health rules of this city."

Petition by residents of the Norwood district for abatement of the dust nuisance on Norwood Boulevard between 95 and 101 streets was referred to the finance committee for a report. calfe, will be the Duke of Windsor's best man. The major is the Duke's equerry.

Herman Rogers, who made the announcement, would not comment on the fact that of 30 invitations sent out, only 16 acceptances were received.

Some persons close to the Chateau de Cande, where the wedding will take place, also attached significance to the fact that Lady Selby will attend without her husband, the minister to Austria. However, others pointed to the acceptance of Thomas, another diplomat.

There have been reports the British government opposed the attendance of Sir Walford Selby, despite the Duke of Windsor's pleadings. Sir Walford was one of the duke's confidantes during his stay last winter in Austria.

The other guests:

Baron and Baroness Eugene de Rothschild, owners of the Enzesfeld castle, where the duke stayed during the first part of his Austrian wait; Mrs. D. Buchanan Merryman, Mrs. Warfield's aunt from Washington; Charles E. Bedaux and Mrs. Bedaux of New York, owners of the Chateau de Cande; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Graham (he is British consul at Nantes); A. G. Allen of London, the duke's solicitor; Dudley Forwood, an equerry of the duke; Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers of New York.

CELLULOID FOR GUARDING TREES, SCIENCE PLAN

DETROIT, May 26—A mantle and skirt of cellulosic material, to be worn by fruit and nut trees, which would bar unfriendly insects and keep frost from taking its toll of buds and blossoms was described last night at the third Dearborn conference of the farm chemurgic council by William J. Hale, research consultant of Midland, Mich.

The skirt of this arboreal garment, Dr. Hale said, is perforated to permit free access of air and bees. Cellulosic material, he explained, is permeable to light.

In order to combat freezing of buds on a dressed up tree, Dr. Hale explained chemists have devised a liquid spray which forms a temporary film over the perforations, thus sealing the garments and resulting in temperatures from five to 20 degrees warmer inside than outside. In due time the film disappears.

The garment itself is weather resistant, he said, and added that a garment for a single peach tree will not bring over 10 cents in the selling price.

CIVIC TAX COMMITTEE TO PONDER UNJUST LOAD

SPECIAL MEET TONIGHT FOR LEVY GROUP

Expert Advice For City In Preparing Brief Is Suggested

Proposed action by the royal commission which will shortly be appointed by the Dominion government to survey federal, provincial and municipal taxation fields will be studied by the civic advisory taxation committee at a meeting in the council chamber, Civic Block, Wednesday night.

City council decided Tuesday that the committee should review the provincial taxation committee's report in connection with the commission's investigation, copies of which have been submitted to city council.

WIDE FIELD

The inquiry by the commission will cover a wide field, and the taxation survey is being undertaken in an attempt to divide the sources of taxation between the three governments on a more equitable basis. First step in this direction should be an inter-provincial conference at which representatives of the western provinces would co-ordinate their briefs for presentation to the commission.

One of the chief suggestions in the report prepared by the sub-committee of the Alberta legislature's taxation committee is the appointment of an economist who would act in an advisory capacity on tax questions. Names of three possible western appointees and five eastern men have been suggested for this position.

ECONOMIC HISTORY

According to the committee's report placed before city council Tuesday night by Ald. J. W. Fry, city's representative on the provincial board, the commission's inquiry would cover the following: general and economic history; law and constitutional history; freight rates; banking and credit facilities for agriculture; private debts, mortgage interest rates, etc.; financial relationship between the Dominion and provincial governments.

Members of the civic advisory taxation committee are: Ald. Walter Clevely, chairman; Ald. E. East, Ald. J. W. Fry, Ald. J. T. McCreath, A. E. Ottewell, F. C. Casselman, Public School board; R. D Tighe, K.C., Separate School board; F. W. Race, J. S. McCallum, Edmonton Taxpayers' Protective association; P. B. Baragar, Edmonton Chamber of Commerce.

AID WITH BRIEF

Ald. Fry told council Tuesday that the city should aid the provincial taxation committee in drawing up a brief to be presented to the commission.

"The Dominion government is suppressing the fact that municipalities are laboring under an unjust burden of taxation," remarked Ald. Guy Patterson.

Ald. J. H. Ogilvie held it would be good business for the city to consider the appointment of a taxation expert to advise the city.. Ald. Walter Clevely has a notice of motion before council to this effect.

Referring to the suggestion that aldermen should draft a brief on taxation for final submission to the royal commission, Ald. Ogilvie said this was a question for experts. He did not think aldermen were fully qualified for a study of this nature.

City council finally tabled the provincial taxation committee's report and instructed commissioners to supply members of the civic taxation committee with copies.

CATHOLIC REBEL ACCORDED LAST RITES OF CHURCH

WOONSOCKET, R.I., May 26.—Elphege J. Daignault, 58, leader of an insurgent group in the Catholic church which caused Pope Pius XI to order their excommunication in 1928, died suddenly today from heart disease.

As Daignault slumped in his chair, mortally stricken, while preparing to go to his office, a priest of the church which executed one of its sternest disciplinary measures on him and his group, and threatened, before the end of a four-year conflict, to interdict them, administered the final rites of his faith.

A Republican and active in politics, Daignault, leading insurgent Franco-Americans, demanded, in 1928, an accounting to members of a dozen parishes for expenditures of church funds.

The group's action in bringing equity suits against the late Bishop Hickey, stirred the church to its severe disciplinary action and resulted in Daignault, and 61 other persons, being excommunicated.

RACE HORSE'S LOSSES CHARGE IN INCOME CUT

Novel Case Comes Before Exchequer Court For Adjudication

OTTAWA, May 26—Goldlure, the chestnut colt who won the King's plate at the Woodbine race track Saturday for Harry C. Hatch, really belongs to a corporation called Trinity Securities, Limited. So does Monsweep, the speedy gelding who carried the Hatch colors to victory in the same race a year ago.

So it turned out at an income tax appeal heard in the Exchequer Court of Canada yesterday. Mr. Hatch is contesting Dominion government income tax assessments aggregating some $85,000 for the years 1931 to 1934 and the issue before the court hinges on his breeding farm and racing stable.

LOSSES ON BREEDING

The Toronto sportsman contends losses on his horse-breeding and racing activities should be taken into account in computing his income tax. The department of National Revenue thought differently and so Mr. Hatch took his appeal to the courts.

Evidence adduced before Mr. Justice E. R. Angers today was to the effect Trinity Securities Limited was a personal corporation, all the stock except directors' qualifying shares being owned by Mr. Hatch.

BOUGHT FARM

From time to time Mr. Hatch had transferred to the securities company various stocks and bonds. The company also bought a large farm and built up the racing stable which has won renown on Canadian tracks in recent years.

While, however, the company's profits from its securities were substantial its losses on its breeding and racing were also large. Mr. Hatch claimed he should be taxed on the company's net income from all sources after losses on one activity had been deducted from profits on the other.

The princess married Prince Bernhard Zu Lippe-Biesterfeld on Jan. 7, 1937.

WHAT'S BRITISH SUBJECT, POSER FOR DELEGATES

General Hertzog Raised the Problem For Pundits At Conference

LONDON, May 26.—"What is a British subject?"

In an interval of grave discussions on international politics and empire defence, Prime Minister General Hertzog of South Africa yesterday placed this poser before the Imperial conference.

Hertzog wants the term defined. In making the request he has raised a problem for the legal pundits of Whitehall. The Imperial conference appointed a committee to consider it with Ernest Lapointe, Canadian minister of justice, as chairman.

NO NEW OBLIGATIONS

This development in the conference came shortly after it was stated at Canadian headquarters Canada was not considering any new obligations in regard to empire defence.

Her delegates have pointed out that Canada, in doubling her defence appropriations and thus safeguarding her own territory, has made a substantial contribution to defence.

Some delegates to the conference are understood to desire a central authority established in London to handle defence matters. Canadian delegates oppose the suggestion, feeling co-operation can best be accomplished by exchange of ideas and information through regular channels.

In regard to the question of British subjects, the Status of Union Pact passed by the South African parliament in 1934 struck from an older statute the words "a British subject of European descent" and substituted "a person of European descent who has acquired union nationality," as the standard of citizenship in the Union.

BROUGHT OPPOSITION

The change created opposition there. Meetings of citizens passed resolutions demanding the right to be known as British subjects.

It has been explained General Hertzog and his government are not endeavoring to alter the common loyalty of all British subjects to the King. What he wants is a clearer definition of Commonwealth citizenship.

BASQUES, DULL 'TO AIR RAIDS, PLOD ALONG

Go To Offices With No Business To Do—Do It and Head For Home

BILBAO, Spain (via Paris), May 26.—In besieged Bilbao, the people act almost the same in war-time as in peace-time. It seems to be a habit.

Electricians still run to the city's suburbs, although some of the suburbs are in the war zones. At 9 o'clock each morning commuters emerge from Bilbao's stations, newspapers in hands, heading for offices and stores.

NO BUSINESS

But there is practically no business to transact and there are almost no commodities to sell. The Bilbaoans stay at their places of work until 5 o'clock; then they take trolleys, buses and electric trains back home, newspapers in hands again.

Most of the city dwellers—and many of those from nearby suburbs—volunteered early in the siege to help dig trenches and build fortifications against Spanish insurgents after their daily jobs were done.

It is only a short walk from metropolitan Bilbao to the fortifications. Men and women, singing and laughing, march out in long lines in the evenings, with shovels, picks and hoes over their shoulders.

WOMEN LOOK FINE

Sometimes there is music to accompany them.

The women go out to dig trenches in high heels, their hair freshly marcelled. One of the things that strikes a foreigner in Spain these days is the neatness and style of the Spanish women in the midst of war. Hairdressing parlors are doing a big business.

Cafes are filled. There is music. There is little to eat and only imitation tea to drink, but Spaniards go just the same.

Air raids provide a big problem for the authorities. The residents like to linger in the streets, watching the bombers overhead, instead of hurrying to the shelters.

CAP GETS PIANO

Spanish generosity, proverbial in peace-time, seems to increase as the war wears on. Once Spaniards offered you anything you admired; now they offer you things before you've admired them.

An English food-ship skipper got somewhat inebriated in a barroom one night and leaned on the piano. The next morning when he woke up aboard his ship he found the piano on deck; the Spaniards thought he liked it so much they delivered it to him.

KENT URGED AS PRESIDENT OF IRELAND

Former Dail Member Says British Royalty Not In Politics

DUBLIN, May 26—An amendment to the proposed Irish constitution expressing the Free State's allegiance to the British crown and commonwealth was rejected by a committee of the Dail today. Only three members voted in favor of the plan.

DUBLIN, May 26—A suggestion that the Duke of Kent be invited to become president of the Irish Free State when the new constitution goes into effect, was made in a letter to Dublin newspapers today by Alastair McCabe, former member of the Dail Eireann.

"In view of the fact that it will be practically impossible to get any man sufficiently detached from politics to fill the office in this country," McCabe asked, "would it not be a good idea to get a member of the British Royal family, the Duke of Kent, for instance to allow his name to go forward for the position?

"If a member of the Royal family was selected the devastating personal antagonism so prevalent in our party politics would have little scope for play. There is every possibility a candidate like the Duke of Kent would be a popular choice."

'PEG FURRIERS' UNION GOING OVER TO LEWIS

WINNIPEG, May 26.—Local fur workers associated with the International Fur Workers' union will swing over to the Committee for Industrial Organization following decision of the union convention in Chicago to break with the American Federation of Labor after 24 years affiliation, it was indicated here today.

Membership of 200 fur workers is claimed by the local union. The executive is still in Chicago and official word of the local union's stand at the convention has not been received here but labor men believe the Winnipeg organization will join up with John L. Lewis' C.I.O. along with other locals of the international union.

NEGUS WON'T SEND ENVOY TO GENEVA

League is Relieved of Ticklish Task by Emperor's Action

GENEVA, May 26—Emperor Haile Selassie relieved Geneva of a delicate problem today by informing the League of Nations he had decided there would be nothing to gain by sending an Ethiopian delegation to the assembly session scheduled to convene this week.

After opening yesterday, the 97th council session marked time today, with observers predicting tomorrow's meeting would once more see the League's attention centred on the Locarno question.

The matter has been pushed more or less into the background by developments in Spain, but it was believed Great Britain, France and Belgium would bring it to the fore again by advising the council of the results of recent negotiations.

Haile Selassie's letter to the League secretary-general, Joseph Avenol, while shutting off a dispute threatened by objections to seating Ethiopia at the assembly session, revived echoes of the East African war.

How CHEVROLET'S VALVE-IN-HEAD ENGINE "Steps-Up" Performance . . . Yet Saves You Money

The Complete Car – Completely New

YOU hear Chevrolet owners mentioning gasoline economy in terms of 25 and more miles per gallon. You hear others enthusing over Chevrolet "pick-up", pep, performance.

These people are not boasting, they're just telling the facts. And here's why: Chevrolet is a more economical car because Chevrolet is the only car in its class with a Valve-in-Head Engine.

The great advantage is, a Valve-in-Head Engine gets as much as 10% more power out of every gallon of fuel than any other type. With the result that gasoline does more work, goes farther, costs you less per mile.

And because the Valve-in-Head Engine gives premium power and performance for the gas used, you find this type in many a costly motor car—in all airplanes, racing cars and speedboats that hold outstanding records.

Drive a Chevrolet for performance with economy . . . and the matchless all around satisfaction of Hydraulic Brakes—Unisteel Turret Top Body by Fisher—Knee-Action gliding ride (on Master De Luxe models) and Fisher No-Draft Ventilation. No other car priced so low has them all! Low Monthly Payments on the General Motors Instalment Plan.

SMILING SPRING

Soaking rains over the most of the province on Saturday and Sunday and a bright summer day for the "24th" made up a week-end weather program that left nothing to be desired.

The rain was needed, and it fell heaviest where it was needed most, bringing cheer to the hearts of the farmers. That the holiday was thought to be also needed was evident from the general way in which it was observed; in particular from the thousands of town folks who took the opportunity to get out into the country and get a glimpse of fields and woods and lakes. They found the country easy to look at, certainly in this part of the province. Vegetation is farther advanced than usual at this time of year.

The province over it is many years since the "24th" found crop conditions so favorable and the outlook so bright.

The city council, acting on the advice of officials of the finance department, decided it will be cheaper for the city to go on paying 6 and 7 per cent interest according to contract until the bonds mature, rather than accept the "reduction" offered by the Fortin agreement. In which decision council is no doubt right.

That being the case, what about the 5½ per cent bonds and the 5 per cent bonds? Can anything be gained by changing these into 4½ per cents, or will it be cheaper in those cases also to "forget" the agreement and keep on paying the rates set by the original contract until these bonds run their course?

Since council didn't know what it was getting, or not getting, in one clause, how much does it know about what the other clauses mean? It would be a good idea to have the finance men figure out the rest of that remarkable bargain and see what it amounts to. The inference is that council didn't know when it ratified the agreement, arbitrarily, and doesn't know yet.

What, if anything, does the city get out of the Fortin agreement except the privilege of spending the accumulated sinking fund money and then starting to pay all over again? That probably is something the wondering taxpayer would like to know. It may be assumed council can't tell him. But it might find out.

REDUCING STAFF?

Edmonton ex-service men want the Government to explain why so many veterans have been let out of provincial employ in recent months without being told definitely why their services were no longer required.

It is not disclosing any secret to say a corresponding amount of wonderment has been aroused among the general public by the large number of provincial employees dropped from the pay-rolls, including some senior officials of long and supposedly satisfactory service.

When the legislature meets, this question of wholesale dismissals is bound to be raised, with urgent requests for information as to the reason. This is information which the public are entitled to, and which it is the duty of the members to ask for. And, where an employee has been dismissed or his resignation asked for without a plain reason being assigned, he also is entitled to an explanation.

If the object is to reduce the staff and save money, that can be understood, and is by no means an uncommon cause of "firings." But it can hardly be imagined the province has for years been paying hundreds of clerks, stenographers and other officials who were not really required to handle the business. Or that business has slumped as heavily during the last year and a half as so drastic a reduction would imply.

POLITICS

If a general provincial election comes to Alberta this summer it will not come as a thief in the night. There have been advance signs aplenty. On Sunday Premier Aberhart gave the most direct statement yet made; that he will call a general election if the Insurgents continue to insurge when the legislature reassembles.

That anyone in or out of the legislature really wants an election is to be doubted. What would be gained by it is not apparent. And that it might introduce a period of still worse confusion is only too possible. The present assembly is split four ways. The next one might be split seven ways, with still less prospect of stable government.

But elections do not always come because they are wanted. Sometimes there is nothing else possible. When a condition of deadlock has been reached there is only one way out of it, and that way leads to the polls. And a condition of deadlock does not always arise because of obstinacy or ambition. Downright honesty sometimes makes compromise impossible, even for the sake of peace or appearance.

The Social Credit members of the legislature will have to decide whether the present deadlock is one which they can afford to end by treaty, or a cleavage on principle that admits of no compromise. One difficulty is that, after these months of bitter recrimination, a patched-up peace would look like a truce with conscience inspired by a desire to hold their seats and draw the indemnities.

ROCKEFELLER

Twenty-five years ago a favorite topic of the day, in newspapers, magazines, public discussion and private conversation, was how John D. Rockefeller had made his money.

During his already long life-time the coal oil lamp had replaced the tallow candle, and the price of the liquid had dropped to a fraction. Rockefeller had played a major part in the evolutionary processes—and collected for his services. As the collections had mounted to a fabulous fortune, public attention, official curiosity and legal action were directed to the methods by which it had been accumulated.

Since that time the world has been less interested in how Rockefeller got his money than in how he spent it. For spending has been his main occupation in the intervening years. He has given lavishly to worthy causes, the best known being the Rockefeller Foundation and the Medical Research institution which also bears his name. These organizations are known and read of all men. Their discoveries and achievements are the heritage of mankind.

Rockefeller has gone, but these agencies he brought into being will go on through the years, saving lives, lengthening, broadening, protecting and enriching life itself. The question arises: What if there had been no Rockefeller? Would these benevolent institutions have come into existence if he—or some one equally successful in accumulating money—had not founded and financed them? When the chapter is closed and the account made up are not the faults that were found in his methods of gaining overborne by the good that he has done—and will go on doing through the humanitarian enterprises he launched?

That question is pertinent in Alberta, because the provincial University has been one of the beneficiaries of his administration of the great wealth over which he gained control.

Finding Tuberculosis In Time

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

On an average of about 2 out of 3 cases of tuberculosis of the lungs treated by a doctor, will be found to be either in a moderately advanced, or seriously advanced stage. The disease reaches such stages before the first diagnosis is made and treatment started, in about 66 per cent of the cases.

Dr. F. McCoy

Usually it is totally overlooked in the early stages, when it is easily and most readily curable. And yet tuberculosis of the lungs is one of the most easily diagnosed of disorders and can be found early enough for treatment to be started at the time when recovery is most speedily accomplished.

The chief reason it is not diagnosed soon enough is that the early symptoms happen to be of such a nature that they mask the real process which is causing them and appear to be due to some trivial condition of little importance. There is nothing about the first symptoms of tuberculosis which warns the patient of his danger.

The first symptom likely to be noticed by the patient is easy fatigue. He becomes tired more quickly than he used to, and yet this tiredness is not startling enough or striking enough to cause any alarm. He thinks he is run-down, or perhaps he has been doing too much, or that he needs a "tonic." The fatigue may be accompanied by a slow loss in weight, which takes place so gradually that the patient may not notice it for some time.

Even if he is the exceptional patient who consults a doctor at this stage, the lung lesion may be overloked unless the chest is examined with the X-ray. The report on a single sputum test is not likely to be reliable, for the report may be negative. In the early stage, the tubercle bacilli are not yet being found in the throat discharge.

When tuberculosis of the lungs is first getting started, it generally attacks a young adult between 15 and 25, localizes in the upper part of one lung, and thereafter develops very slowly. For quite a long time, the affected patch may not be very large and the patient has still to develop the significant findings of moderately advanced tuberculosis such as night sweats, afternoon temperature, flushing of the cheeks, and hemorrhaging.

How fast the disorder will progress depends upon several factors. Those having inherited an immunity to the disorder, or who have developed an acquired immunity, may undergo a successful healing process, with the body able to cope with the invader. In such circumstances, complete healing may occur with the patient blissfully ignorant of the fact that he has ever had a lung lesion.

At the present time, tuberculosis of the lungs is the chief cause of deaths in young adults in spite of the fact that when treatment is started early enough, the disease is curable. Earlier diagnosis not only makes the cure more certain but shortens the length of time of treatment.

If there are any young people in your family who complain of being tired and who are losing weight, the best advice I can give you is to have them examined. Try to make sure that they have the chest examined with the X-ray. Early X-ray examination is one of the best forms of insurance against tuberculosis of the lungs.

The chief problem now is to get people to be examined early enough so that the disease is found in time. Earlier diagnosis means a better hope of cure.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Marylee O. inquires: "What should I do if I think I have trouble with the thyroid gland?"

ANSWER: Your question is somewhat indefinite inasmuch as you give me no hint as to what type of thyroid derangement may possibly exist. You might be referring to a simple goiter, to an exophthalmic goiter or to hyper-thyroidism. I am under the impression that you have not yet consulted your doctor and are not sure that the thyroid is affected. I suggest that the best thing to do is to see a doctor near you.

QUESTION: B. T. wants to know: "Do you think that the canned pumpkin is as good as the fresh?"

ANSWER: I often suggest that when the family enjoys pumpkin, that the canned variety be used. You will find that a large can is inexpensive and it seems to me that this may be the cheapest way to use it. Also, of course, the canned form is available at all parts of the year.

Poems That Live

"NEVER THE TIME AND THE PLACE"

Never the time and the place
And the loved one all together!
This path—how soft to pace!
This May—what magic weather!
Where is the loved one's face?
In a dream that loved one's face meets mine,
But the house is narrow, the place is bleak
Where, outside, rain and wind combine
With a furtive ear, if I strive to speak,
With a hostile eye at my flushing cheek,
With a malice that marks each word, each sign!
O enemy sly and serpentine,
Uncoil thee from the waking man!
Do I hold the Past
Thus firm and fast
Yet doubt if the Future hold I can?
This path so soft to pace shall lead
Through the magic of May to herself indeed!
Or narrow if needs the house must be,
Outside are the storms and strangers: we—
Oh, close, safe, warm sleep I and she,
—I and she!

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Odd happening.

A friend stopped me to ask the loan of ten dollars till the end of the month. An hour later I met him again.

"That was a lucky ten-spot you loaned me," he said. "Twenty minutes after I got it a chap came and gave me $60 that I'd given up expectation of getting."

Must be a wonderful feeling to get money that you aren't expecting. Most of my experience has been in reverse.

To head off the rush and avoid explanations, the ten-spot is no longer available.

Here's an odd letter from a Vancouver paper. It is addressed to owners of property on Burrard street, urging an appeal against this year's assessment. The indignant property-owner says:

> "Values have dropped to one-half owing to the erection of these two churches, which should not have been allowed there."

This column once commented on the two great granite churches which different denominations have built almost side by side on Burrard street, wondering if the Deity knows embarrassment, having to choose between these great and costly stone prisons, while thousands of near-by families live huddled together, three and four families in one frame house. My mind, dwelling on the larger aspects, thought only of the economic waste and the theological complications. I never thought of it from the point of view of an irate property-owner, fuming that the building of two quarter-million dollar granite churches had lowered the value of his near-by real estate.

Why should churches depress the value of real estate?

I can see how the great premises of chartered banks—cathedrals of finance—destroy the value of streets for merchants. Great austere piles on the best corners of the down-town districts, they act as a damper on window-shopping. If I were to find myself mayor of a young town with a future, I'd advocate a bylaw to prevent down-town business corners from being used for bank premises. Any back street or side street would do just as well for a bank.

Do you see anything symbolic in a bank in a western city taking up space on a main street—to block the free flow of business?

The sudden about-face of Mussolini, now said to have informed Franco that the Italian forces are to be withdrawn from Spain, must not be put down to horror over the massacre at Guernica by German bombers flown by German pilots. It's because Mussolini is apprehensive of trouble at home.

From Paris "L'Oeuvre," a Leftist newspaper, comes news that a corps of engineers at Castel-Maggiore had refused to leave for Spain, while 200 soldiers in another Italian regiment were shot when the entire regiment refused to embark.

Thousands of Italian homes have been desolated. Men mobilized to go to Ethiopia have become corpses in Spain. At Genoa, persons have been arrested on suspicion of placing posters on walls, reading, "Down with Fascism," "Long Live Republican Spain," and "Down with Mussolini."

Posters appeared on walls in Milan two weeks ago, when the electric current was cut off for 25 minutes, denouncing intervention in Spain and declaring "The hour of liberty for oppressed Italy will soon be sounded."

German and Italian people are used to being ordered around and rather like it, but Fascism with its brutalities and totalitarian demands, overreaches the limits of forbearance. When men risk death to make protest even dictators realize the danger of going counter to the public will.

* * *

It matters not in which hemisphere Fascism asserts itself, nor how plausible its appeal, it ends in tyranny. Japan, the land of cherry-blossoms and smiling people, is just as cruel under Fascism as Germany. The Manchester Guardian recently narrated the case of an English teacher who after 10 years in Japan was arrested, imprisoned and tortured on a charge of "radicalism." His offence consisted in giving a small sum of money to a radical cause and accepting some of its literature to read. He refused to disclose to the Japanese police who gave him the radical newspapers. Says he:

> "My continued silence caused the detective to start kicking me on the leg, smacking my face and punching my ear. Finally, saying to the examiner, 'It's no use being gentle with this beast,' he left the room and returned with a baseball bat. He made me sit in the chair, asked the question once more, and when I did not answer gave me a crack across both legs above the knees with the bat. The question was repeated again and again, each time with a blow on the thighs or leg. This process continued from 11 a.m. till about 8:30 p.m."

Two days later detectives repeated the performance with a bamboo fencing stick. The following day the assistant chief of police hammered the obstinate Englishman on the right leg and thigh with the baseball bat and, seizing him by the hair, banged his head against a cupboard.

The idea of the totalitarian state is that the individual has no rights against the state, which can go to any extreme to enforce its demands.

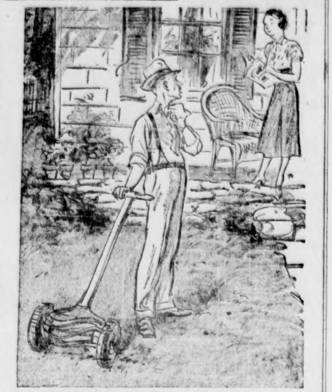
Brazil is the most recent of the Fascist states. Two weeks ago saw the trial of 35 persons, all of whom were found guilty and given prison sentences up to 27 years. They will serve their sentences in the wild Matto Grosso jungle.

The trial was a farce. American friends sent David Levinson, prominent American lawyer, to defend two of the accused, Luis Carlos Prestes and Arthur Ewert. Levinson was forced to leave Brazil and the Brazil Bar Association was instructed to name a counsel for the defendants.

Trial took place secretly in a courtroom containing soldiers with machine guns and tear-gas bombs. Defence counsel took a look at these and promptly informed the court that he would not attempt a defence, as the culpability of his clients was self-evident. Prestes was given a 17-year sentence and Ewert 14 years. As all constitutional guarantees are suspended, no appeal is possible.

Under Fascism, the State must not be challenged, even to do justice.

SIDE GLANCES — By George Clark



"If you tell the neighbors I'm mowing my own lawn to save money, they'll say I'm tight. If you say it's to keep my waistline down, they'll think I'm vain."

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History — o — By FRED WILLIAMS

Today is the anniversary of a great political reform in Canada. It was on May 26, 1874, that the House of Commons passed a bill providing for the use of the secret ballot in federal elections. It seems ridiculous to us of this generation, but there were actually men in and out of the Canadian Parliament who wanted to retain the old open voting system, with all its corruption and coercion. Even some of the leaders on the Conservative side were inclined to take the view of their namesakes in England and look at the secret ballot as "an act of Revolution", a leap in the dark which might lead to political chaos. But common sense prevailed and the final passage of the bill was marked by practical unanimity. Perhaps one of the most effective arguments in favor of the ballot was that from Nova Scotia, where the secret ballot had been ordered by the Legislatire as far back as 1759, and no evil results had come. At the same session the government put through another reform measure of equal importance, the holding of all the elections on one day (with certain isolated exceptions) thus ending the jockeying for polling dates to suit political exigencies. These two acts are in themselves monuments of the ministry under Alexander Mackenzie, his perpetual contribution to the sane government of Canada.

Forty years ago, on May 26, 1897, Felix G. Marchand was sworn as Premier of Quebec. He inaugurated a Liberal regime in that province which lasted until the political earthquake of August, 1936, when the Liberal structure collapsed. In all that 39 years, there were only four premiers: Marchand, 1897-1900; Parent, 1900-05; Gouin, 1905-20 and Taschereau, 1920-36. Since then there have been two premiers, Godbout and Duplessis. There is little likelihood that the French province will ever go back to long dominance by one party.

The Day's Dark Spot: On May 26, 1896, the Point Ellice bridge over The Arm at Victoria, B.C., collapsed. Thirty-five lives were lost and a day of early summer joy was turned into an evening and night of mourning.

ASKS QUESTIONS

Editor, Bulletin: There are some questions I'd like to propose to the Alberta Government.

(1) Is Partiocracy a democracy? Not on your life. It goes a long way to defeat the very principle we are supposed to hold as an ideal. Think of it, and you'll find a dozen ways the party in power defeats the will of the people. I surely don't need to ennumerate these.

(2) Should the cabinet be chosen by the premier? No, the cabinet and premier should both be elected or dismissed by a majority vote of the 63 members of the legislature. We don't want a dictatorship, we want a democracy, through and through.

(3) Did you ever see anything more ridiculous to an out and out democrat than the oath of the members of the executive council as published in "To-Day and To-Morrow", April 28. One would think in reading it that it must be the oath of some Black Legion or Ku Klux Klan.

(4) Should such judicial and executive power be given to any body of men or any trade or profession as is given to the Law Society or Medical or Dental Society so that a man can be put behind the bars if he doesn't obey their dictates. Is this in accord with democracy?

(5) Isn't it wonderful that we have so provided for our old people who have led lives of service for their country's welfare that we at 70 years of age give them $20.00 a month to live on in which case they must practically give up earning for themselves. Gee whiz! Aren't we generous to our old people. $20.00, think of it?

(6) How about the appointment of our judges for life? Is that in accord with democracy? Anyhow shouldn't we have a jury at all trials. You remember what was said at Jesus "And the common people heard him gladly." The same thing might be asked of the lieutenant-governor. What an unnecessary expense.

(7) Couldn't we have our government conducted more economically. You would think we existed and struggled and saved for the sole purpose of provding a government. You would think the government's main purpose was to draw their salary, couldn't we cut down the members to 12 instead of 63 and have one government for the western provinces? Is it any wonder we are in debt up in the millions. What fools we mortals be!

(8) If the present arrangement is not satisfactory why the necessity of a new election and the expense connected with it. Why not by a majority vote of the present members, decide who you want for premier and who for cabinet ministers. Get together and appoint your leaders by a majority vote the same as any association would do.

J. W. MACQUEEN.

WHY THE SURPLUS SLUMPED

The notable rise in wheat prices during the current season has excited public interest. A review of "Grain Crops", which the Imperial Economic Committee has just issued, appears therefore at an opportune moment and provides a handy summary of the underlying statistical position of wheat production, trade and stocks.

The review shows haw three successive years of small crops in North America and the small 1935-36 crop in Argentina have facilitated the liquidation of stocks, which for years have continually overhung the wheat market. World August 1, 1934, to 19 million tons at the same date last year. By August stocks fell from 31 million tons on 1 this year, they are expected to total less than 14 million tons. The fall in stocks expected this season follows on the drought in North America last summer and the poor crop reaped in most countries of Western Europe, which have consequently been buying larger quantities from overseas. In the United States itself an important change has come about; normally an exporter of wheat, that country has been a net importer during the past two years.

MRS. WARFIELD, DUKE REHEARSE WEDDING RITE

Warship Escort Refused, Royal Cruise Reported Abandoned

MONTS, France, May 26—Wallis Warfield and the Duke of Windsor practised getting married Tuesday and then announced they had abandoned plans for a honeymoon cruise. Dr. Charles Mercier, mayor of Monts, spent two hours rehearsing the couple he will marry June 3.

Abandonment of the cruise was announced by Herman L. Rogers. He gave no reason, but there have been unofficial reports the British government has declined to allot a warship for protection of the yacht which Windsor proposed to rent for a cruise that would take him around the coast of Spain.

NEAR BIARRITZ

Another source said the couple now planned to spend the first part of their honeymoon in a villa near Biarritz, going late to Wasserleonburg Castle in Austria which the Duke has rented.

The Duke was reported to have won his plea that his personal friends be allowed to attend his wedding even though they hold official positions.

Couple May Go Back To England

LONDON, May 26.—Close friends of the Duke of Windsor today said arrangements were believed to have been made for him to return to England with his Duchess, and live at Fort Belvedere.

The return of the Duke and his bride, however, would be delayed for a year or so after the wedding at the Chateau De Cande in France June 3, it was said.

One link of the stirring days of last December will be broken—probably this week—when Stanley Baldwin retires as prime minister.

One may admire the many engaging qualities of Edward VIII and still be convinced that what has happened is best for his own happiness and for his country's welfare."

Coronation Stowaway in Ship's Boat Had His Fill

WINDSOR, Ont., May 26—Never again will 16-year-old Jean-Paul Matta "steal a ride" on a boat. Three days in a cold lifeboat without food or water cured him.

Jean-Paul was home here today with a story of hunger, thirst and cold on the high seas after an attempt to see the Coronation by stowing-away on a liner. Three days out of Montreal, he gave himself up to officers on the ship and eventually was brought back to Canada.

HAD 50 CENTS

When the youth slipped aboard the Antonia at Montreal on the night of April 28 he had 50 cents in his pocket. Today, after travelling an adventurous 7,000 miles, he still had the 50 cents.

Telling of his experiences, Jean-Paul said he hid in a lifeboat after untying the canvas cover. Next day, as the vessel got under way, sailors tied up the canvas. For three days and nights he remained in his prison. "It was freezing cold," he said.

Finally, he said, he could stand hunger and cold no longer and managed to unfasten the canvas coverings and leave the lifeboat for walks about the ship.

GOT SOME BUTTER

He took a handful of butter from the ship's kitchen. Later, he said, he posed as a sailor and ate bread rolls with butter.

"I got myself a loaf of bread, too, and finally I told the sailors who I was and they advised me to give myself up," Jean-Paul said. "They were good to me and gave me bacon and egg sandwiches."

The lad said he reported himself to the master-at-arms who took him to the captain, who in turn ordered him to the confinement ward. But not before he had ordered Jean-Paul be given a big meal—which included chicken. The stowaway spent but one day in confinement. After that he mingled with the sailors.

The derrick of the No. 1 well will soon be moved to the site of the No. 2 well which it is considered will be about half mile west of the present well and drilling will commence as soon as possible.

What To Buy For June Brides Is Vital Question As May Days Speed By

Vogue advises, "Don't just get married. Have a wedding." June brides are already planning their trousseaux, ordering wedding dresses and thinking about wedding presents, whether they'll admit it or not. Here are a few tips.

The silverware she receives is the foundation of practically every bride's setting-up-housekeeping. With checks from the family, with gifts of silver from friends and relatives she begins a lifetime of collecting that most beautiful and perfect appointment for her home. Flatware, the knives and forks and spoons, form the basis.

MODEST BEGINNING

If it is a question of moderate expenditure, the bride can start very modestly with a service for four or six and a few serving pieces in a standard pattern, and add to it as she goes along. At first, she can do very nicely with these. Later, birthdays, anniversaries, and Christmas are occasions when she may increase her collection.

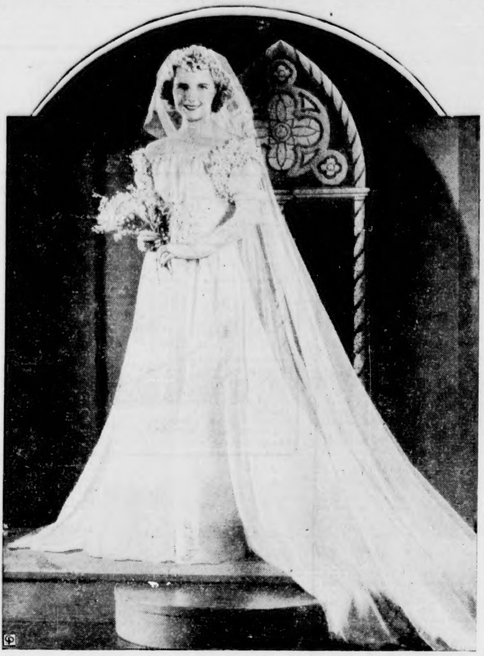
If her family or friends wish to set her up in grand style, a chest of sterling silver flatware is every bride's aspiration. There are so many handsome patterns today that it is only a question of choosing the one that will fit in best with the style of furnishing in her home. If sterling is too steep, silver plated ware in a very fine quality will last for years.

ENSEMBLE IDEA

Even silver hasn't escaped the ensembling idea and most manufacturers show holloware, that is silver plates, tea sets and so on, in patterns to match or harmonize with the table ware. After knives and forks, silver vegetable dishes are, perhaps the most welcome gifts. They can be used for many kinds of foods and add so much to the glamor of dining. They are also very practical, as one vegetable dish with cover can be made into two by using the top as a separate dish. Some of them also have metal inner linings, either divided or in one piece, that are removable.

Silver trays and bowls are also excellent wedding presents. The most beautiful and most resplendent silver wedding present is, of course, the tea set with its tray. It is the ultimate in gifts. What bride wouldn't be thrilled over it! Candlesticks or candelabra, with an aforementioned bowl that can be used as a centrepiece, are other pieces of silver for which the bride will have no difficulty in finding a place.

Peasant Motif Of Newest Dance Frocks Is Adopted In Lovely Wedding Gowns



White silk starched chiffon wedding gown in peasant styling, with lilies of the valley and laced girdle.

Unusual Styles Make Trousseau-Planning Exciting This Season

One of the newer trends of the season in wedding dresses, as well as in other costumes, is the peasant. The wide-skirted, square-bodiced frocks that are so popular in dance models, are shown also in wedding dresses, as this one illustrated will confirm.

DIRNDL SKIRT

This lovely gown is made of starched white chiffon with a romantic dropped shoulder line. Lilies of the valley encircle the armhole. The sleeves are long and tight, extending down over the hand. The dirndl skirt has a wide girdle that is laced up the front. The long veil is held on by a wreath of lilies of the valley.

Lilies of the valley seem to be the favorite motif in wedding gowns this season. A recent New York bride wore a dress in white mousseline de soie, with white satin lily of the valley appliques.

For the bride's wardrobe she will be wise to choose slim frocks and suits for daytime, wide skirts in crinoline style, for evening. This is what the Paris dressmakers are showing in their latest collections.

UNUSUAL COLOR COMBINATIONS

Color combinations grow more exotic. Purply reds are combined with mint green, cyclamen pink with pale green; cornflower blue with beet, the latter combination using the blue for a long blue chiffon cape which is worn over a beet red chiffon dress, which has pink and light green cornflower insets around the neck.

Ribbon trimmings are used on a number of Paris models, and long sash ends float from frocks and hats.

Original is the idea of trimming evening gowns with fruit. For instance, Francevramant puts lifelike oranges at the back of the waistline of an orange colored chiffon dress; peaches at the belt of a pink crepe gown, and apples on a slinkily draped black crepe, which, by the way, is slit to the knee, a style that is still popular.

LEIS

Leis of fruit and flowers are also used to trim some of the more distinctive evening gowns.

Not only the bride this year is wearing white lingerie. A great deal of it is being shown and chosen by the general public. In addition, white lace is frequently used to trim tearose slips.

And speaking of slips, it has gotten so that a woman is almost compelled to have a slip for each dress, hems being the lengths they are. And another interesting note for the bride collecting her trousseau is that blue lace was used to trim a white chiffon nightgown. So if she is looking for something unusual . . .

For her going-away suit she may wear a camisole, or suit, slip. It is a slip with a camisole top, of course, a lace top with a plain flared skirt.

HEALTH LEAGUE TEA

Setting up exercises to keep you trim and fit . . . musical drills to chase the blues . . . and deep breathing exercises to bring the roses into your cheeks . . . these are a few of the club secrets that will be exhibited by members of the Edmonton Health and Strength League when they entertain at tea on the afternoon and evening of Friday, June 4, in aid of funds for under-privileged school children. Mrs. G. Hogg is in charge of the displays which will be given throughout the day at 3:30, 4:30, 8:30 and 9:30. Mrs. K. Leshgold is convener of the affair and assisting will be Miss Margaret Coupland, accompanist, Mrs. E. Barker, Mrs. E. Astle, Mrs. S. A. Davey, Miss Ethel Morrison, Miss Thelma Fortner, Miss Dorothy Daughty, Miss Margaret Allen and Mrs. W. Bleller.

Nuptial Mass Celebrated In Rectory

Rectory of St. Anthony's Catholic church in Edmonton south, bright with spring flowers and lovely green ferns was the attractive setting for a wedding of wide interest to friends in Edmonton, when, on Tuesday evening, Miss Synneva Wallace became the bride of Mr. William Sinoski, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Sinoski, of Rabbit Hill.

The daughter of Mrs. J. N. Zook and the late Mr. Wallace, Miss Wallace was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. C. H. Wallace, and wore a becoming gown of white satin, made on flaring lines with high neckline and wrist-length sleeves. A lovely veil of white lace worn close to her head and falling to the floor, completed her ensemble, and on her arm she carried a cascading bouquet of pink roses.

Pastel shaded gowns of lovely point d'esprit, made on youthful and flattering lines with wide sashes were the frocks the bridesmaids, Miss Mary Huskin and Miss Alice Knutson chose for the wedding. Pale green was the color of Miss Huskin's frock, pale pink that of Miss Knutson's. Carnations in pink and white were their flowers.

Rt. Rev. William B. Carleton, parish priest read the marriage lines.

Following the marriage ceremony a reception to more than one hundred guests was held in the Royal George hotel. To receive, Mrs. C. H. Wallace, sister-in-law of the bride, chose a smart gown of black satin, with a bright corsage of carnations. Receiving with her, Mrs M. Sinoski, mother of the bridegroom was attractively gowned in brown cut chiffon velvet worn with corsage of contrasting flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Sinoski will make their home in Edmonton.

W.I. President Resigns After Fine Service

Concluding four years of office which will go down in Alberta Women's Institute history for its innovations, Mrs. J. P. Ferguson, of Trochu, is retiring from the presidency of the organization at the twentieth annual convention which opened at the Palliser hotel in Calgary on Tuesday.

Mrs. Ferguson

Inauguration of correspondence courses in household economics, and in home nursing were undertaken during her reign of office. Beginning a magazine is in the day's work for Mrs. Ferguson and in 1936 the Women's Institute magazine, "The Home and Country," was begun under her guidance and she has had the satisfaction since of seeing it fill a very great need in the lives of the province-wide members.

It was in her term of office, too, that the Lady Tweedsmuir Women's Institute Circulating Library was started, Mrs. Ferguson handling this for the entire province.

Not content with all the detailed work belonging as a matter of course to her office, she helps her lawyer husband professionally, looks after her home and two children and is recording secretary of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

She is first vice-president of the Alberta Federation of Women and a member of the executive of the board of the Canadian Red Cross society, Alberta branch. She also finds time to be the superintendent of the St. Paul's United Church Sunday school and chairman of the Trochu school board. She is leader of the Trochu Canadian Girls in Training and holds other minor official positions. She is exceedingly interested in the cause of peace and is often invited to address meetings on this subject.

DELIGHTFUL "and-what-have-YOU-been-doing all day" atmosphere that marks the dinnertime reunion of a family pervaded the happy little party at which members of the Edmonton Women's Press Club exchanged bits of news over a cozy cup of tea in the Garneau home of their president, Mrs. Perren Baker on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. M. H. T. Alexander, of Vancouver, editor of the Canadian Music Teachers' Magazine, as well as the Mounted Police organ, The Scarlet and Gold, was there, catching up on events of the 10 years which have elapsed since she left an Edmonton newspaper for the Pacific coast. Until recently music editor of the Vancouver Sun, Mrs. Alexander has had a widely-varied experience in the writing game—contributes to the Toronto Saturday Night, and very many more Canadian publications as well as the Edinburgh Scotsman, but it was only under pressure that she would modestly outline the little triumphs which have carried her easily along the newspaper road for twenty years.

Sharing intimate little glimpses of it with the members, Mrs. J. C. Bowen read the most recent letter from her daughter, Mrs. Charles Freund, the former Ruth Bowen, women's editor of the Edmonton Bulletin who at her new home in Chicago was asked to bring greetings from the Canadian Women's Press club to a dinner meeting of the Illinois Women's Press association, where there were gathered some 150 representatives of press women from all over the United States.

Everyone felt Evelyn Murphy's delight, if not her surprise, that someone wanted to buy the British rights of her charming little poem, "The Blue Owl," which appeared in a recent issue of Chatelaine magazine.

Mrs. R. Procter presided at the tea table for which Iceland poppies formed a colorful centrepiece.

Other guests included:

Mrs. Joseph A. Clarke, Mrs. Laura Goodman Salverson, Mrs. A. C. Dempsey, Mrs. George Robertson, Mrs. John Cleave Kenwood, Miss Evelyn Gowan Murphy, Mrs. J. H. Acheson, Dr. Donalda Dickie, Miss Isobel McMillan, Miss Miriam Elston, Miss Dorothy Howey, Miss Evelyn Buxton and Miss Naomi Lang.

St. Matthew's Scene of May Wedding

One of the most attractive ceremonies of the season was performed with simple dignity in the evening hush of St. Matthew's church on Saturday when Esther Amelia Templeman, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Templeman, became the bride of Thomas Johnson, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Johnson of Winterburn.

Rev. Mr. Mathews read the marriage lines at eight o'clock.

Charming indeed the bride looked in a smartly tailored suit with which she wore accessories in white and a corsage of pink and white carnations. She was given away by her grandfather, Mr. Henry Taylor.

Miss Templeman's only attendant, Miss Isabelle Sanderson, wore a chic tailleur in golden brown tones with accessories in leaf brown, and a corsage of carnations.

Mr. Frederick Johnson supported his brother as best man.

Miss Beryl Barnes presided at the organ.

Friends were present later at a reception arranged in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Joseph Thompson. Receiving with her, the bride's mother was frocked modishly in blue printed crepe with white accessories and a corsage of valley lilies. Mrs. R. Thompson, mother of the bridegroom, was in black, with cream colored accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson motored west later in the evening to spend a brief honeymoon prior to returning to make their home in Winterburn.

She Was Afraid To Shake Hands

Rheumatism in Joints Caused Her Intense Pain

Read this letter from a woman describing the manner in which she was affected by rheumatism.

"For several years," she writes, "I suffered with rheumatism of the joints, especially in my hands, and this caused me intense pain. I was even afraid to shake hands with anyone, for it made me suffer terribly. I began taking Kruschen Salts regularly, and after a little while my pains disappeared completely. I am naturally delighted with Kruschen." — (Miss) K.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently caused by deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in stimulating your liver and kidneys to healthy, regular action, and so help them to get rid of this excess uric acid.

"POCKET-BOOK" PURSES ENJOY FASHION'S FAVOR

PARIS, May 26 — This year's handbags have straps and handles demoted to second place, though still acceptable in view of their obvious advantages.

Both in the afternoon and evening the Parisienne prefers to carry, folded under her arm, a rectangular "pocket-book" whose shape harmonizes with her tailored costume. This bag is often made up in crocodile dyed in the new warm shades—clear beige, Venetian red, gold, fawn. The velvety leathers such as doeskin, antelope and "doblis," which looks much like a fabric, are particularly favored. Crocodile is decorative in itself. The supple and smooth qualities of doeskin and "doblis" allows cut-out work, stitching and edging and encrustations in contrasting colors. Fastenings and initials are more consciously ornamental than ever before.

The same flat rectangular pocketbooks are preferred for evening. They are smaller and most frequently found in lame with Persian motifs or Chinese or in old-fashioned brocaded silks. Initials and fastenings are often gold, inlaid with precious stones. The latest wrinkle in fastenings is to make them in the shape of clips which may be removed and worn elsewhere.

LIFE OF AFRICAN FOLK SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

Rural communal life in Africa and the effect the missionaries are having upon the lives of the people were described most interestingly by Miss Gilchrist when she was asked to speak to members of the Knox United church Women's Missionary society recently. Presiding during the business meeting was Mrs. Fraser Smith. Mrs. G. S. Macdonald, Mrs. A. J. Kent and Mrs. George A. Macdonald conducted the devotional hour of worship.

Powder And Paste Both Good For Teeth

By GLADYS GLAD

"I've heard so many varying opinions on the comparative merits of tooth powders and tooth pastes that I am at a loss as to which form of dentifrice it is best to use. However, I have found your advice so sensible, and of such great aid to me in eradicating the pimples and blackheads that formerly disfigured my skin, that I've decided to base my selection upon your opinion. Which do you think more advisable for cleansing the teeth—powder or paste?

"IRENE."

I am of the opinion that powders and pastes are of equal merit as dentifices. Some people say that pastes contain substances upon which bacteria thrive. When, however, you use your mouth wash after each brushing (and of course, you do) you cleanse all paste from the teeth and gums. Other folk insist that powders are injurious because they contain harsh, scratchy abrasives.

A good powder, however, does not contain such materials. Select a paste or powder dentifice as you prefer. Just take care that it is a well-known, reliable preparation, and that it is not gritty. And be sure that you rinse your mouth thoroughly after each brushing with a good mouth wash.

"My abdomen is a bit too well padded. I feel that a few extra exercises would help to hasten the reduction of this part of my body. Can you prescribe any such exercises? PEARL."

The following exercises practiced vigorously every day, will help to break up the fatty tissues that have accumulated on your abdomen:

Stand erect, legs apart, palms together overhead. Bending at the waist, swing the hands down between the legs.

Stand erect, feet together, arms raised overhead. Bend back as far as you can, and then bend forward, touching the floor with the tips of your fingers. Keep your knees stiff during this exercise.

Lie on your back on the floor, arms extended overhead. Bending at the waist, and keeping the knees stiff, rise forward and touch your toes with the tips of your fingers.

"My hair is dry and brittle. When I shampoo it, I use an electric dryer to dry it. Mother tells me that I shouldn't use the dryer on my hair while it is in its present condition. Will the electric dryer really harm my hair? GRACE."

I do not usually advise the frequent use of electric or mechanical dryers on the hair. And women with harsh, brittle hair especially should avoid such dryers. A continuous blowing of hot air on the scalp tends to remove any little natural oil that the hair my possess, and only increases its dryness. Some artificial dryers are as bad for the tender scalp as sunburn is for the sensitive skin of the face.

Dry your hair by hand, if you possibly can. You may use warm towels to remove the excess of moisture. Then shake your hair dry with the hands. I would advise you to begin immediately to correct the dry condition of your hair. Give your hair weekly or fortnightly hot oil shampoos. And by all means, do not neglect your brushing.

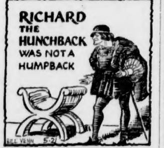
Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.



RICHARD THE HUNCHBACK WAS NOT A HUMPBACK
BILL VENN 5-21

There is another of the many errors kept alive by literature. Shakespeare described Richard III. as a monster, humpbacked and ugly. The truth is: This man was a handsome person with a pleasant face, a muscular body, and the perfect figure of a soldier. He was a tyrant, and the picture that has been passed down to us is one of his actions rather than his actual physical form. However, he was really not as unscrupulous as his brother, and was not as cruel as his successor, historians say.

In pattern 5320 you will find a transfer pattern of a hanging 15 x 20 inches; a color chart; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches used; directions for making the hanging.

To obtain this pattern send 21 cents in coin (provincial tax included) to The Edmonton Bulletin, Household Arts Dept. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

First Aid TO THE Ailing House

OIL BURNER PUFF

By Roger B. Whitman

Question—We have an oil burner. It ran out of oil, and there was an explosion that blew open the boiler doors and knocked out the draft regulator. Damage was not serious; but I am wondering if the occurance is common, and if so, how to prevent it.

Answer—When the oil supply runs out, it does not do so all of a sudden. Air enters the feed pipe and stops the flow, to be followed by a trickle of oil. The air puts out the flame; the following oil is vaporized by contact with the hot surfaces; the fire-box fills with explosive vapor, and there is an explosion when ignition occurs. I could not call the occurrence common, but it will happen under a certain combination of conditions and when the controls have not been kept in proper shape. As with any piece of machinery, an oil burner should have regular inspection and be kept in proper running order. An event of this sort, which might be blamed on tthe oil burner, actually begins with the failure of the owner to keep it in proper condition.

FOUNDATION MATERIALS

Question—What is the best foundation for a house? In a place where I am planning to build, stone would be cheapest; for there is plenty of it around. But will concrete be better and longer lasting?

Answer—I should greatly prefer poured concrete, reinforced by steel bars. With this there should be no cracking. With the foundation in one solid mass, settlement will be uniform.

CARE OF HOUSE HEATER IN SUMMER

Question—In the past, when laying up my heating boiler for the summer, I have removed all ashes and left all doors and dampers open, with the idea that air circulation through the boiler would prevent rusting. I am told that this is wrong, that all doors and dampers should be left closed. I have also been adding water to fill the boiler; in the fall I have drained the boiler and refilled it. Is this correct?

Answer—If you take down the smoke pipe so that there will be no draft through the boiler, your informant is correct; but if you leave the smoke pipe in place, all the doors and dampers should be left wide open; air will then pass through so freely that rusting will not occur. There is greatest protection in taking down the smoke pipe. In any case, oil the edges of the doors. You should clean all of the inside passages of the boiler and coat them with oil; you can use crankcase oil in an insect sprayer. You are right in filling the boiler completely full of water; hold the safety valve open and let in water until it runs out. But in the fall, do not drain the boiler; let out only enough to bring the water to the proper level.

Recipes Orient You For Chinese Dinner

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Chinese parties seem to be on the up and up. Several readers have asked for help in planning them. Let's try this one, in which delicacy and freshness combine for success.

First, there should be bird's-nest soup. Don't be alarmed unduly. Bird's nest means the fine seaweed used by birds for building nests. It is a delicacy. Your local Chinese restaurant or grocer can get it for this special party of yours.

BIRD'S-NEST SOUP

(4 to 6 servings in lovely china bowls, please)

One quart clear chicken stock, 1-4 pound bird's-nest, 1-4 pound chicken meat, 1-4 pound ham, 3-4 teaspoon salt.

Plunge bird's-nest in boiling water, cook 1 hour, then drain and rince in cold water. Chill well. When chilled, add chicken broth, cook 1-2 hour together. Then add chopped cooked white meat of chicken. Bring to boil and remove from fire. Add salt. Pour into small Chinese bowls and sprinkle with chopped cooked ham just before serving.

CHINESE SALAD

(4 to 6 servings)

One-half pound bean sprout, 4 tablespoons mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 boiled ham, 1 medium onion, 1 hard cooked egg, salt, pepper, vinegar to taste.

Put bean sprouts (see your local Chinese friends) in strainer and pour over boiling water. Drain and cool. Place mayonnaise in large bowl. Season to taste with salt, pepper and a little vinegar. Add ham sliced in narrow "shoestrings" and the onion finely chopped. Then add bean sprouts. In another bowl arrange crisp lettuce leaves, then turn in the salad mixture. Garnish with slices of egg and minced, not chopped, parsley.

CHICKEN ROLLETS

(4 to 6 servings)

Three eggs, 1-4 pound bean sprouts, 10 mushrooms, 1 bunch scallions, 1-2 pound raw chicken (boned), though pork can be used if preferred, 4 water chestnuts.

Cut scallions into 1½ inch lengths. Slice meat into shoestrings. Slice water chestnuts. Place 2 tablespoons oil in skillet. When very hot fry meat until light brown. Add all vegetables and mix thoroughly, lower heat, add seasoning of salt and pepper and 2 tablespoons Chinese soy sauce (it comes in bottles at your grocer's). Cover tightly, simmer 5 minutes, then remove from fire and cool.

Beat 3 eggs with a pinch of salt. Drop by spoonfuls into large greased frying pan, making each cake about the size of a pancake. When firm, place a tablespoon of the meat and vegetable mixture in the center of each egg-pancake. Roll over tightly. Drop each filled pancake in deep fat. When golden brown drain on paper and serve at once.

JO-JOTTE — A Pointer

By ELY CULBERTSON

It is often important for the Jo-Jotte player to have a fairly good idea of how many cards his opponent has in a particular suit. As in other card games, there are two general methods of finding this out: The deductive and the mathematical.

The deductive method is by far the more accurate and the more important. You draw logical conclusions from every bid and every play of your opponent and also from every bid and play he did not make. As a simple example of the direct inference, take the case where you lead two aces and each time your opponent drops the ten. You can be pretty sure they were singletons and that the other seven cards of his hand are in the remaining two suits. As an example of an indirect inference, take the case where you have discovered during the play that your opponent had the seven and eight in each of three suits. You can be sure he is not void of the fourth suit—and you can even be sure that he has at least one fairly high card in the suit. How? From his failure to bid nullos!

Contract Bridge

IF A TRUMP IS LED

When a defender leads a trump, it should tell the declarer something about the rest of his hand. One inference to be made is that he probably has not a worthless doubleton or trebleton in some other suit. If he did he probably would try to hold on to his few trumps, with the hope of getting a ruff. Such a deduction can be the key to the proper play of the hand.

This deal came up in a team-of-our match and was played at the same contract at both tables—5 Spades. South's opening bid was 1 Spade, North bid 2 Spades, South 3 Diamonds, North 4 Spades and South tried for a slam with a bid of 5 Spades, but North rightfully passed.

At both tables the spade 3 was the opening lead, won with the spade J and a club led, which was won by East. A second club was returned, on which West played the J and South winning. South now played the diamond Ace and ruffed a diamond.

At this point one declarer played the club 9 and when East did not cover, tossed his heart 10. West won this with the club 10 holding the contract to five.

C. E. Van Vleck, Jr., of the Whist Club of New York, who sat South at the other table, did not count on West for a doubleton holding in clubs, so ruffed this trick and was able to make six. His theory was that West would not have led a trump with a doubleton holding, but would have preferred to keep his trumps with the hope of a ruff later.

CITY TO START AIRPORT PLAN ON BIG SCALE

Commissioners Authorized To Commence $485,560 Project

City commissioners were authorized by city council Tuesday to take preliminary steps in the city airport development program estimated to cost $485,560, of which the federal government will contribute $121,390. The plan requires little, if any, cash outlay by the city this year, according to a report submitted to council by City Engineer A. W. Haddow.

Commissioner R. J. Gibb explained that preliminary steps in the program called for the closing of certain streets and lanes to provide for the proposed enlargement of the airfield. A certain amount of privately-owned land must be acquired for the extension of the field both north and south of its present boundaries.

The program must be carried out in accordance with the Dominion government's agreement with the city, which provides for the development of the airport along standard specifications as set out by federal authorities. If this is not done, the federal grant will not be made.

Grading, lighting, fencing gravelled runways and construction of new hangars are included in the project.

Civic Officials Hold Conference

Civic officials conferred Wednesday on a course of action to be adopted in connection with the development of the city airport. One of the first steps will be advertisements announcing the city's intention of closing 118 avenue between 109 and 121 streets to provide for the planned extension of the airfield south to Portage avenue and Kingsway.

City Engineer A. W. Haddow explained that if 118 avenue is closed on the 12-block stretch the resulting detour along Kingsway and Portage will only be a quarter of a mile. It is also expected Kingsway from 118 avenue to Portage will be gravelled to provide an all-weather highway.

Amount of work to be undertaken by the city this year depends on immediate negotiations with the federal government, which is contributing to the airport development.

Police Hunt For Missing Woman

Police are searching for Katie Weichler, 38 years old, five foot two, weighing about 145 pounds, who when last seen at 1:50 a.m. Wednesday by her husband, E. E. Weichler, caretaker of the Alexander block, was wearing a red and black dressing gown and pajamas.

Weichler told Constable Harry Nelson of the city police that his wife fled from their apartment following a domestic scrap, during which, he said, she attacked him with an ice-pick, inflicting three wounds on his head and one on his hand.

Steamboat Still King of Northern Transportation Celebrating 50th Year Of Mackenzie Navigation

Airplane Has Not Displaced Barge-Train As Chief Method Of Moving Freight—Veteran Mackenzie River Engineer Retiring This Season After Watching Northland Opened By Development Of Steam

By PHILIP A. NOVIKOFF

FORT SIMPSON, N.W.T., May 26—A gigantic air freighter wings its way towards Aklavik. One thousand feet below, a steamboat, pushing two heavily loaded barges, glides down the broad Mackenzie river on its way "down" north to the Arctic ocean. Catching sight of the gleaming white vessel wending its way on the silvery bosom of the river, the pilot of the air liner dips one wing in humble salute to what is yet the king of transporation in the north—the river steamer.

This year, 1937, marks the 50th anniversary of steam transportation on the mightiest river in Canada, the second largest on the North American continent—the Mackenzie, discovered by a rebellious Scotch employee of the North-West Company less than 150 years ago.

One hundred years later another Scotchman, John Sutherland, a gangling youth of 20 whose thirst for adventure took him from his Thurso home in Scotland across the Atlantic to the wild wastes of the northwest territories, helped to write another chapter in the opening of the north by assisting in the construction of the first steamboat on the Mackenzie.

SERVED COMPANY 50 YEARS

This John Sutherland, now Chief Engineer Sutherland, is retiring. He has served the Hudson's Bay Co. diligently for more than 50 years. He witnessed and assisted in the birth of the Mackenzie steam transportation system, watched it tenderly through it infancy, and proudly saw it blossom into maturity. He, more than anyone else, knows what a hard taskmaster the Mother of Northern Rivers has been. But he saw it subdued and conquered by another mother, the mother of power—steam.

It was in the spring of 1885 that the Hudson's Bay Co. decided to build the steamship Wrigley at Fort Smith, a post roughly 400 miles north of Edmonton. But the outbreak of the Riel rebellion put a stop to all plans and disrupted northern transportation generally. The following year, under the supervision of Captain John

The steamboat is still king of transportation in the far north. Here we see a freighter going ashore from the barges of the S.S. Distributor at Arctic Red River, N.W.T., a few miles up stream from Aklavik.

It was an evil day for speeders in city police court. Three of them were convicted, fined $15 and costs and their drivers' licenses suspended for three months. "You ought to know better, and this has got to stop," said Magistrate James Ritchie.

• • •

Mrs. Annie Hawyliuk, charged with a breach of the Juvenile Delinquents Act was granted an adjournment until June 1.

NO DEFINITE PLAN TO MEET BOND MATURITY

Negotiations are still under review by the provincial government, whereby funds will be raised for meeting the $1,650,000 bond maturity due on June 1, according to Premier William Aberhart.

So far, no definite arrangements have been completed.

Rumors on Wednesday were that as this issue is payable in New York funds, that the Dominion government was coming to the province's assistance in meeting it. However, the premier said that no action had been taken in this respect.

The United States has a law that if any Canadian province defaults on an issue that all Canadian bonds can be outlawed on U. S. markets. If this province does default it is not thought that the U. S. will bar all Canadian bonds, but only those of this province and as these cannot be sold just now, anyhow, the market will not be affected to any extent.

SENATOR SAYS PEACE POLICY TO BE PURSUED

Maj.-Gen. W. A. Griesbach Addresses Canadian Club Meet

The peaceful policy of the British Commonwealth of Nations is based upon the natural inclinations of its people and will be solemnly pursued in the light of world facts, said Senator W. A. Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., V.D., K.C., in addressing the annual meeting of the Edmonton Canadian Club Wednesday noon at the Macdonald.

H. A. Dyde was elected head of the association for the coming year. He succeeds A. E. Ottewell, university registrar. There was an increase of 50 members in the personnel of the club during the past season, the retiring executive reported.

EXECUTIVE

The executive is: Hon. pres., Hon. J. C. Bowen, Lieut.-Gov. of Alberta; past president, A. E. Ottewell; president, H. A. Dyde; first vice-president, E. M. Gunderson, C.A.; second vice-president, P. W. Johnson; secretary, R. Steele, re-elected; treasurer, Francis Neal; executive committee, Harry G. Turner, Dr. George A. Macdonald, R. G. Dinning, Dr. A. C. Cook, Ronald Martland, F. S. Sutton.

"The Empire is a partnership," stressed Senator Griesbach, "and like all partnerships it must boldly hang together in adversity as well as in prosperity. It is surely inconceivable that anyone would advocate that we take all the benefits we can and then scuttle out when war comes."

"If that is our considered opinion, we ought to get out of the Empire now. The policy of all parts of the Empire is one of democracy and peace and we may have to fight for both. Collective security within the Empire means peace, plenty and progress for everyone."

INCREASE POPULATION

Need of doubling Canada's population within the next 20 years so as to assist in the solution of Canada's problems, including the vexed railway problem, was advocated by the speaker. He admitted the numerous difficulties that had to be faced, but said that Canadians must grapple with the problem with determination and vision.

Over-crowded countries will not forever consent to have the rich territories of the empire occupied by a sparse population, and therefore the empire as a whole must check the decline in population so as to offset this argument and prepare to guard its possessions against attack, said the distinguished speaker.

EMPIRE TRADE

"Sea-borne trade within the empire is essential to Canada and vital to Western Canada," he said, in urging greater empire trade as one of the ideals which should animate the conduct of the component parts of the commonwealth.

"It is the announced policy of the British government not to employ its armed forces contrary to the League covenant, or the Pact of Paris, for its policy is one of peace, firmly grounded and deliberately pursued," said Senator Griesbach.

PREMIER WILL REMAIN AWAY FROM MEETING

Premier William Aberhart will not attend the mass meeting Thursday night in the Memorial hall at which representatives of all war veterans will protest against the dismissal of ex-servicemen from the civil service, according to a letter received Wednesday morning from the premier by W. R. McLaren, president of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion.

After acknowledging receipt of the letter inviting him to attend Thursday's meeting, Premier Aberhart wrote: "The present government has always regarded most favorably preference for ex-servicemen in matters of employment."

"It is not our policy, nor has it ever been, to dismiss or retire any ex-serviceman if it could be avoided. We are anxious to confer with the ex-servicemen and we shall be glad to meet with their contact committee at an early date if so desired; but we cannot feel that any good purpose could be served by holding a public discussion."

Letters were also received on behalf of Hon. Solon Low, provincial treasurer; Hon. N. E. Tanner, Hon. W. A. Fallow, stating the inability of the ministers to attend the meeting.

"Thursday's meeting goes on whether the premier attends or not," said Mr. McLaren.

W. R. McLaren will preside at the meeting and among the speakers will be Rev. Canon C. F. A. Clough, chairman of the contact committee; Maj. Gen. the Hon. W. A. Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., representing the Red Chevron club; H. A. Dyde, president and representative of the Canadian Corps Association, local branch, and S. C. Heckbert of Vermilion, representing the Provincial Council of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. Following the reading of letters and telegrams of protest that have been received from all over the province, and addresses by these speakers, the meeting will be thrown open for a general discussion.

CONDITION OF CRASH VICTIMS MUCH IMPROVED

General improvement in the condition of the eleven persons hurt in the auto accident which occurred near Alberta Beach late Monday was reported by hospital authorities Tuesday.

Ray Owen and J. Rodd have been discharged from hospital and the others, while still receiving treatment, are considered to be out of danger.

Miss Nelson, whose condition was at one time considered critical, passed a good night, attendants said, and is definitely better. The Owen family is on the mend and should be back home within a few days.

Dr. Victor W. Wright, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, has returned from a three weeks vacation in California.

SALARY SCALE PROPOSED FOR TEACHER BODY

F. C. Casselman Introduces New Schedule in School Board

Involving marked changes in principles, a new salary schedule for teachers employed by the Edmonton Public School board was introduced at Tuesday night's board meeting by Trustee F. C. Casselman.

The plan was spoken to by Mr. Casselman in committee on property and finance and will be discussed in detail at a meeting on June 8. Teachers will receive copies which they may study.

Annual salary increases, as proposed in Mr. Casselman's plan, will be made according to ratings given teachers on their year's work, worked out as a percentage of a basic increment.

RAISES ON MERIT

"The main principle of this plan is that teachers will proceed on their own merits," Mr. Casselman said. "They will be given the benefit of their ratings in our service. There is no reason why a teacher who does excellent work should proceed upward in the salary scale, lock-stepping with a teacher whose work is not up to the same standard."

Mr. Casselman said that his proposals would not affect present salaries and would not lower any present pay, but would affect increments and the pay of new teachers engaged. Some maximum salaries would be lowered but chiefly in the high schools.

CREDITS FOR TRAINING

Definite salary credits would be made for university and other training which was directly related to the teachers' work.

Main basis for the scale would be the per-pupil cost of education taken on an average of the past 20 years.

"This looks to me like a fair basis and I think it is an improvement on any proposal ever brought to the Board before," Trustee Dr. W. Morrish commented.

LATE PARLEYS START ROW ON CITY COUNCIL

Aldermen Want Fewer, Shorter Meetings—Make Stand Tuesday

Exasperated at the amount of midnight oil city fathers are being required to burn in order to wade through the mass of civic business facing them these days, several councillors finally lost patience at Tuesday night's council meeting and struck a blow for fewer and shorter meetings.

Tuesday's meeting did not break up until 12 o'clock, the agenda remaining unfinished.

The row started when Ald. J. W. Fry suggested at 11 o'clock that council adjourn for a special meeting later in the week.

OGILVIE SHIES

Ald. J. H. Ogilvie shied at this plan. "Let's sit for a while yet and finish the agenda," he urged.

"No, let's adjourn. We can't finish the agenda tonight," countered Ald. Fry.

So council sat for another hour, and as the agenda was still unfinished, a majority of aldermen voted to hold a special meeting Thursday to deal with the rest of the business.

URGES SPEED

"I see no reason for so many special meetings, Mr. Mayor," protested Ald. Ogilvie. "We should be able to get through our business quicker at the regular meetings. I don't want to sit again until the next regular meeting in June."

Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C., said he knew where the trouble lay. "There's too much tittle-tattle," he declared. "Too much time is lost. Why, two years ago we were able to finish our meetings by 10:30. Ask the reporters if that wasn't the case."

Newspapermen nodded vigorously.

"The mayor's right. I'm sick of it all!" was the parting shot delivered by Ald. J. T. McCreath as the tired solons left the chamber to meet again Thursday.

COUNCILLOR LOSES SEAT

Omission by the deputy returning officer to swear relations of property owners whose names were not on the voter's list cost Alex Allanach his seat on the Melberta municipal council, His Honor Judge A. U. G. Bury, in district court Wednesday holding that failure to swear these voters was a contravention of the Municipal Election act and therefore the election could not stand. He declared the election invalid.

Proceedings to have the election declared invalid were taken by James H. McLuckie, defeated candidate, who trailed his opponent by a scant two votes.

Evidence before the court was that 74 voters, whose names were not on the voters' lists, but who represented themselves as relations of property owners, were given ballots, asked to sign a declaration but were not sworn.

The Inquiring Reporter

With the aid of a federal grant of $100,000 the British Columbia government is undertaking a youth re-habilitation program that will cost $200,000 and will include physical culture and general and technical training to fit unemployed young people for jobs. "Would such a scheme be a good thing for Alberta," the Inquiring Reporter asked several persons interested in young people's work in the city.

Here are the opinions expressed:

JOSEPH BARRATT, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A.: Any government that helps youth build themselves up for the future is doing a fine thing. Eventually Alberta will probably have to take over such a program, and it is evident that the Dominion government also realizes its responsibilities in this respect.

• • •

MRS. BYRON MORRISON, war nurse: I think it is about time the government began to turn its attention seriously to the problem of unemployment among young people. The time that young boys of even 18 or 16 years, are spending in idleness can never be made up. The government should certainly undertake an investigation to determine how many young people there are unemployed in the province and then set about to train them for possible employment. A lot depends, of course, upon the kind of training they are given.

• • •

MRS. J. ZENDER, president of the Edmonton Mothers' Council for the Protection of Youth: Such a plan would be a fine thing providing there was work to do when they finished. You can't go on training them forever, and a great many young people today don't need re-establishment—all they need is a job.

• • •

DON BURTON, Y.M.C.A. assistant: It's a good idea. Well, let me see, $200,000 did you say? Where would the money come from? Oh, well, the taxpayers' money is spent anyway, so part of it might just as well be used that way as any other.

COCHRANE SUFFERS SKULL FRACTURE

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

No Excuse

To Our M.L.A.'s

It's Urgent

IN a way this should be a sort of open letter to the members of the Alberta Legislature on behalf of the fishing fraternity of the province and every man, woman and child that has any sort of interest in the tourist business. There is no doubt but what every member of the legislature has a staggering load of problems on his shoulders at the moment and that it is impossible for each member to be thoroughly conversant with every need in the province. It is for this reason that we are putting the case of fishing waters to them in this way — and if anyone thinks it is not urgent and likely to lose Alberta a tremendous amount of money, it is because they are not familiar with the details.

Briefly the situation is this. With few exceptions, all our game fish waters that are easily reached are fished out to such an extent that it is practically a waste of money to visit them. Last year it was expected that the province would receive a revenue of $12,000 from angling permits, but there was such a dropping off of fishermen that less than $10,000 was received.

We advertise our fishing all over the world and when tourists come here for it they can get nothing but some coarse fishing—unless they make pack trips back into the hinterlands. It is already popular gossip among U.S. anglers that Alberta's trout fishing is shot. Those tourists who have been stung will not return. Yet the expenditure of only $20,000 for a hatchery would nearly restore our fishing to what it should be.

The only way any state or province can keep its fishing waters filled with the fish that attract tourists and satisfy resident anglers is by means of hatcheries. Eggs are collected by hundreds of thousands from netted fish and hatched in these plants. Under controlled conditions, the number of eggs hatching into fish is many times greater than it is in the wild. The little fellows are then reared until they are large enough to fare for themselves in streams and lakes. Only a small percentage of them would ever survive through the minnow stage if they were not protected in the hatchery. When they are fingerlings and ready for planting, they are taken to the depleted lakes and streams in special tanks and then liberated. The result is 20 times more game fish than would ever be produced even with a closed season—provided such could be enforced.

It Is Sound Business

MEMBERS of the legislature at this point are likely to explain that the demands on the treasury just now are such that a $20,000 appropriation for a hatchery is impossible. The answer is that the sportsmen of Alberta will gladly bear the cost of the hatchery themselves. There is no angler who would not be prepared to pay an extra dollar or two for his fishing license if he were given an absolute guarantee that this money would be spent immediately on a hatchery. In two seasons at the most, this license money will pay for the hatchery.

The next objection is likely to be that the matter of re-stocking depleted fishing waters is a responsibility to be shouldered by such an organization as the Alberta Fish and Game Protective League. That body has already done more game fish stocking than the government has. We would have no fishing at all now, if it had not been for the work done by various leagues.

The answer to that objection is—all right, the league will undertake to build a hatchery and do the stocking if the government will turn over to it the revenue from angling licenses. It is constitutionally all wrong to impose a tax or license fee without contributing something in return for it. So far the angler has gotten very little in return for his license fee here in Alberta.

It is not that the fisheries branch is in any way inefficient. The men in it have done wonders with the limited resources at their command. The whole trouble is that the government has never stopped to find out how bad the game fish situation is. Major attention has been given to commercial fishing since it was an established, tangible business where results could be seen. The members have not realized that game fishing is one of Alberta's greatest tourist attractions — that fighting trout in abundance will bring greater indirect revenue than commercial fishing.

That statement looks doubtful at first glance, but consider what it involves. If one thousand cars come annually to Alberta for trout fishing, which is a very low estimate if we have the fish, it means gas sales (and taxes), garage business, hotel business, food sales, clothing and sporting goods sales, liquor sales—and non-resident fishing license fees. Thousands of Albertans would make fishing trips that are not doing so now. Each of these means a couple tanks of gas, oil, the purchase of tackle and clothing, camera supplies, extra food and so on ad infinitum. Every one of those purchases circulates money and creates business for some one.

In addition, it provides clean, healthy recreation for Albertans and surely that is a point worth some consideration.

Montana Has Done It

SOME years ago U.S. waters were in an even worse condition than they are in Alberta now. Fishermen flocked over to Canada in thousands and the state governments immediately saw the light. They built hatcheries as quickly as possible and today they are paying propositions. The revenue from angling permits soared by leaps and bounds. There is hardly a man, woman or child who does not like to go fishing—if there is something to catch.

Montana is the nearest state and it serves as an excellent example. Hatcheries have made it a fisherman's paradise in a few years. In the river running through the city of Great Falls you can catch three and four pound trout any day during the season. There are scores of streams right along the highways where you can easily catch your daily limit . . . and they are not little fellows six or seven inches long.

Yet the fact that Americans can now get fish right at home will not stop them from coming to Alberta if we have fighting fish. Everyone likes to travel for their holidays and see new scenes, while fishermen especially like to try strange waters.

There you have the case for the immediate construction of a game fish hatchery in Alberta. Is there any reason why it can't be done?

America Cup Bidder Arrives for Trials

BRISTOL, R.I., May 26.—Endeavour I, T. O. M. Sopwith's possible challenger for the America's Cup, arrived at the Herreshoff shipyard yesterday to be put in racing trim.

Shipyard officials said work would be started at once on stripping the British yacht of her ocean-going spars and sails.

The yacht's mate, Endeavour II, which reached America several days ago, was here when the unsuccessful challenger of 1934 arrived. After the two yachts are put in racing trim they will engage in a series of races to allow Sopwith to select the faster vessel.

Stalwarts Eliminated in British Amateur Tourney

Tolley Defeats Scott 2 and 1; Both Former Champs

SANDWICH, Eng., May 26. — A clash between two former titleholders and defeat of such British stalwarts as Dr. William Tweddell, the 1927 champion, Harry Bentley and D. H. R. Martin, lent excitement yesterday to the second round of the British amateur golf championship over the Royal St. George's links here.

A number of second round matches remained to be run off early today, including that of Arthur d'Arcy Locke, the South African 19-year-old who burned up the course Monday.

The luck of the draw brought together Cyril Tolley, twice winner of the crown, in 1920 and 1929, and Hon. Michael Scott, the 1933 titleholder.

TOUGH OPPONENT

Tolley, a tremendous hitter, found Scott a tougher opponent than his first round victim, J. F. MacDonnell who succumbed 4 and 3, but won 2 and 1 in a nip and tuck struggle with his longer distance the deciding factor.

One of the outstanding third round matches will see Tolley playing Frank Pennick, amateur champion of England, who overwhelmed S. H. Newman yesterday, 5 and 4. Experts conceded that from this match might come England's chief contender for the title left vacant when Hector Thompson of Scotland withdrew due to ill health.

EQUALS RECORD

The best score of the day was by Jack Levinson of Chicago, New England champion, who eliminated C. W. Timmis of England 3 and 2. Today Levinson's golf was flawless as he equalled the British amateur championship record for nine holes with 433-443-424—31. He stood four up at the turn and although he ran into occasional trouble on the way home, Timmis could not catch him.

Dr. Tweddell, finalist to Lawson Little in 1935, and a member of the British Rider cup team, found Ian Mitchell in too good form and was eliminated 2 and 1. Mitchell went out in 35 to hold a narrow lead at the turn.

Bentley, another Rider cup star, went out 2 and 1 before Robert Sweeny, American resident of London. The veteran Bentley could not control his clubs either off the tee or around the green.

POINTS MADE CLEAR IN NEW RUGBY RULING

Western Union Retains Point for Kick to Deadline

CALGARY, May 26.—The new code of rules which the Western Canada Rugby Football Union will put into effect this year will retain the point for a kick to the deadline, the rules committee decided at its meeting here, but there will be a provision attached.

In future kicked balls which sail right out of the field will not count on the score sheet. Only kicks which land in the end zone, then roll either to the deadline or to touch in goal, will earn the single point. On punts which land outside the end of the field, the ball will be brought back and scrimmaged by the defending side on their own 10-yard line.

The rules committee also wiped out the section of the rule book which forbade handing the ball forward. Under the former regulations this was ruled as a forward pass any place on the field. In line plays a man taking the ball had to pass behind the man with the ball for the play to be legal. Under the new western code handing the ball forward will be legitimate any place on the field.

CLIVE WINS IN VICTORIA DAY BASEBALL MEET

LACOMBE, May 26.—Clive celebrated the 24th of May by putting on a Sports Day, with softball, a baseball tournament in which four teams took part and foot-races for the younger folks.

In the morning the Clive girls won from the Alix girls at softball, 39 to 11.

Clive met Delburne in the opener of the baseball tournament and won by a score of 10 to 2. Consistent pitching by Lefty Lett combined with good fielding and heavier hitting by the home team were features of the game which went for nine innings. Batteries: Delburne—R. Stronnes, Roselle and Huston; Clive—M. Lett and H. Meldrum.

Alix beat Morningside 3-0 in seven innings, in the second round, the main feature being a homer by Buster Mutch with two men on bases. Batteries: Alix—Mutch and Ray; Morningside—Cecil Lewis and Sweet.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., May 26—United States stock in the Davis Cup tennis matches with Australia's powerful team this weekend rose several points as a consequence of a sensational workout yesterday featuring the shotmaking of the Californians, Don Budge and Gene Mako.

THRASHES GRANT

Budge unleashed the full power of his game to thrash the acrobatic Georgian, Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, in four swift sets. The scores were 6-3, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3, as Budge ran his teammate ragged with a brand of tennis that indicated the redheaded ace of the United States forces is right at the peak.

"Budge played the greatest game ever seen," said the chunky southerner. "His backhand was the most marvelously accurate thing I have ever been up against."

Walter Pate, the American Davis cup captain, did not conceal his delight.

While Budge was polishing off Grant, Mako teamed with Bobby Riggs to trounce the United States doubles coach, George Lott, and young Wayne Sabin. 6-1, 7-5, 6-1.

WAS OUTSTANDING

Lott said Mako was the outstanding player on the court, playing his shots more effectively than at any time thus far.

Grant's disappointing performance against Budge did not alter the general belief that the "Mighty Atom" will be picked for the No. two singles berth over Frank Parker, who ranks a notch above Grant on the national list.

MICKEY COCHRANE

NEW YORK, May 26.—Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, manager and catcher of Detroit Tigers, suffered a fractured skull when he was hit by a pitched ball during yesterday's game at Yankee stadium. Dr. Robert E. Walsh, Yankee's club physician, said Cochrane was in a serious condition. He was hit by one of Irving (Bump) Hadley's pitches in the fifth inning of the Tigers' game with the Yanks, after hitting a home run his last time at bat in the third inning. Hadley's pitch was high and inside and Cochrane tried to duck away as the ball came up. He dropped to the ground as the ball hit him but thousands in the stands thought he had been hit on the wrist. Ray Hayworth replaced him.

BYRON NELSON LEADS MEDAL ROUND P.G.A.

PITTSBURGH, May 26.—Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., shyest, thinnest, and straightest of the golfing great, swung around the field club's mountain in 71 strokes yesterday to win the qualifying medal in the 20th United States professional golfers association championship.

His 36-hole total was 139, five shots under par, and three ahead of Harry Cooper of Chicago, who added a 70 today to his 72 of yesterday.

Winner of this year's Augusta Master's tournament the 25-year-old Nelson held obstinately to the lead while Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N.Y., finished with a 75.

This gave Runvan a total of 143 and put him in a third place tie with Ky Laffoon of Chicago, and Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Winchester, Mass. Sixty-three players qualified.

Hardisty Clicks In Doubleheader

HARDISTY, May 26.—In a doubleheader basketball meet here recently Hardisty clicked in both games. In the first game the Hardisty boys and girls defeated the Irma bays and girls 22-11. Following this the Hardisty boys took the Irma boys into camp by a 24-20 count.

Hardisty boys: V. Cavanagh, W. Swiniarski, G. Chopey, G. Schruga, R. DeFro, R. McBride, J. Whitehead.

Hardisty girls: C. Tennis, M. Carbon, F. Aide, R. Niel, E. Crouch, E. Spencer, K. Parker, G. Hendricks, M. Cotterel, Morrison.

STETTLER, May 26.—The Stettler Elks won their first home game in the Highway 12 League Friday night. They defeated Castor by a 3-1 score. Cliff Sorenson, lanky youngster who did mound duty for the Elks, outpitched his more experienced brother, Ches.

Detroit Manager Is Badly Hurt as Team Bows to Yanks 4-3

Mickey Hit By Bump Hadley In Fifth After Third Inning Home Run; A's Lose 4-2 To Fall Two Games Behind

New York left Philadelphia two full games behind in second place in the American League by defeating Detroit Tigers yesterday 4-3. A home run by Tony Lazzeri in the seventh inning provided the winning margin. It was the Yankees' fifth straight triumph.

The game was a costly one for Detroit as they lost the services of Mickey Cochrane, manager and catcher, who sustained a fractured skull when struck by one of Bump Hadley's pitched balls in the fifth. Cochrane had hit a homer and tied the game at 1-1 in the third. He was removed to hospital in a serious condition.

Tigers used Rowe, while Hadley and Murphy saw service on the mound for the Yanks.

ATHLETICS LOSE

While New York was winning the runner-up Athletics were losing 4-2 to Cleveland Indians with Harder chalking up a loss.

In Washington, Jimmy Deshong, youthful Washington hurler, kept on even terms with Ted Lyons, White Sox veteran, for six innings, but weakened in the seventh and Chicago won, 9-2. The game was tied at 1-1 when the Chicagoans began their assault on Deshong, who had held them to two hits. Linke and Cohen relieved..

The lowly St. Louis Browns bunched three errors in the first inning to help Boston Red Sox win 4-2 and provide Bob Lefty Grove with his second victory of the season.

Grove held the Browns to two hits in seven innings, but in the eighth they scored twice.

LEAD CUT DOWN

In the National league Brooklyn Dodgers chopped into the Pittsburgh Pirates' first place lead with a 2-1 victory behind the fireball pitching of Van Lingle Mungo. He would have had a shutout except for an error by Heinie Manush in the third inning which allowed Woodie Jensen to score on a single.

Burleigh Grimes was banished for the third time this season when he protested in the eighth against the way Umpire George Magerkurth called balls and strikes. Swift was the losing pitcher.

In Cincinnati New York Giants took over second place when they defeated the Reds 9-3. The Giants gave Harry Gumbert a six-run advantage in the first inning, enabling the young pitcher to mark up his first victory of the year.

LEE EFFECTIVE

Behind Bill Lee's effective pitching Chicago Cubs scored a 5-3 victory over Philadelphia. Lee gave up nine hits, including a home run by Earl Browne with a man on in the sixth but eight of the blows were made in the last four innings.

NATIONALS TO OPPOSE CARDS GAME TONIGHT

Seeking their third straight league games, Ralph Morgan's Army and Navy Cardinals meet National Home Furnishers at Boyle Street tonight. The game will start at 6:30 p.m., and all players must be on time.

Morgan has himself twirled his mates to two straight triumphs, but tonight Tommy Brant will do the hurling for the Cards. Tommy has proven himself in past games and is favored to turn in a winning margin. On the other hand, the Nationals have been playing better ball every time out. With a fairly young team, they will be right in there. Tony Conklin is expected to do mound work for the Nationals.

STONY GIRLS WIN

STONY PLAIN, May 26.—The Stony Plain high school girls took the Comet seniors into camp in an interesting game of basketball last Thursday and won by a 24-19 score.

Labatt's EXTRA STOCK Ale is the culminating achievement of this famous and favoured brewery. First extra aging brings it to the point of perfection — then it is bottled at the brewery and brought to you at a very reasonable price. GEE, THIS CAN'T BE RIGHT!
AT FIRST CORRECT POSITIONS FEEL WRONG

Whatever is strange must be wrong. We miss many a boat by letting our feelings make decisions like this for us. It holds for a lot of things but especially for the correct positions and movements in golf.

The first time a player gets into the correct starting position he complains about a lack of comfort. He doesn't stop to reason that it should be uncomfortable from the point of being entirely new. Also, because it favors the muscles on his weak side when he has been accustomed to having the strong side take charge.

In short, the correct positions and movements favor muscles that the player is not familiar with and he confuses unfamiliarity with unnaturalness. Your feelings will always decide in favor of the alignment that uses the strong side with which you are already familiar. The main object then is to discount your feelings when it comes to judging a position or movement.

First of all, find out if it is a fundamental part of the expert's swing. If it is, then try to live down your feeling of discomfort. In time the new position will become the natural one.

Lengthy Program Is Run Off From Morning Until Dusk

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, May 26.—Hundreds of students from schools all over the inspectorate gathered at Red Deer on Victoria Day for the annual track and field meet of the Red Deer inspectorate. In spite of a late start because of bad roads through Sunday's rain, the lengthy program was completed before dark through the co-operation of the competitors and the large staff of officials. The Inspectorate Sports Association was in charge of the meet. W. J. McLean, Red Deer, honorary president; Evan Kelly, Great Bend, president, and W. B. Dawe, Red Deer, secretary were aided by many of the teachers and the meet was capably handled.

A slow, heavy track prevented runners from turning in very fast times in the races but some splendid performances were recorded in some of the other events. With so many contestants the competition was keen and every event drew a heavy entry list. The day was bright and sunny and the exhibition grounds were a busy place with children, their parents and friends.

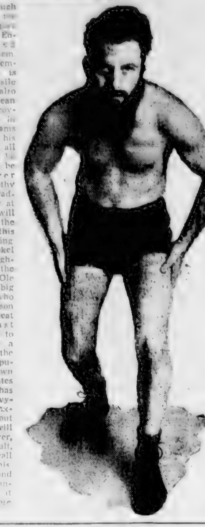
Must Be Clever Friday



Pictured here is Hugh "W[illegible]" Adams, [illegible] ever to wrestle in Edmonton and rated among the best of them. On Friday at the Memorial Hall Hughie is booked to wrestle Charlie Keene who also is a clever and clean grappler who has proved his worth here in previous shows. Adams will have to be at his best and will need all his cleverness when he meets Keene. It will be clean and clever throughout and worthy of much interest. Headlining Friday's show at the Memorial Hall will be Del Kunkel, the grappler who has this city wildly chattering about him. Kunkel meets one of the roughest and toughest of the mat game. It is Ole Erickson, the same big Swedish star who threw Floyd Hanson out of the ring at Great Falls, Montana, last week and sent him to hospital. It will be a natural bout all the way. Erickson's reputation is well known throughout the States and, like Kunkel, has wrestled several heavyweights. He has anxiously awaited a bout with Kunkel and will be at his best. However, Erickson has one fault, that is if one could call it such. It is just this. When he gets "hot" and the bout, too, he cannot be stopped and it takes some time before he cools off.

Muttart Pats Top League With Second Straight Win

Turn In 12-3 Triumph Over Crush; Play Errorless Game

Posting their second straight triumph, Muttart Pats raced into league leadership [illegible] Girls' Baseball League last night at Boyle Street. The Pats [illegible] back Orange Crush in their [illegible] attempt this season, taking a 12-3 score.

Impressive in their first game in which they took a 6-3 margin over Canada Packers, the Pats were equally as brilliant in last night's encounter. They played errorless baseball over the nine inning route and after the first inning, coasted to victory.

Gladys Wilson, relieving Betty Westbrook in the first frame after Orange Crush had scored three times, turned in a steady performance. During eight innings Wilson kept her opponents scoreless, receiving stellar performances from her fielding mates.

The Pats played a clever defensive game. Edith Powers, Rose Daniels and Gladys Wilson were tops. Powers and Daniels each got five assists while Wilson accounted for four. In all the Pats had 17 assists and did not make a misplay which speaks highly of them. In the outfield Dell Davidson and Dot Griffin took the [illegible] and many times snagged difficult catches.

TOOK EARLY LEAD

Pats opened fire on Nellie R[illegible] offerings early in the game. In the first frame they registered [illegible] hits for as many runs and [illegible] went out for two [illegible] single in the third and duplicated their first innings. Before R[illegible] was lifted in the sixth Pats collected one run.

With Pinkowski relieving R[illegible] the Pats were held down to one run in the last three innings.

Batters in the Pats club shared the hits equally with seven players getting a hit each. They were: Powers, Harris, Davidson, Daniels, G. Wilson, Griffin and Ewasiuk.

While the Pats did not hit heavily, their base-running accounted for several runs. R[illegible] less than 15 bases with Davidson, Daniels and Griffin being the [illegible] footers having three-two and three [illegible].

YOUNG CLOUTS 'EM

Rose Young took batting honors for the Crushites. In [illegible] trips to the plate Young collected a double and one of the best home runs to date. Delores Cairns was next in line with a double and a single while Mary Wynnyk, Sager and Pinkowski each got one safety.

Orange Crush, despite their 12-3 defeat, played a better game last night than their first encounter with the Packers. With more practice and experience for younger players, the Crush crew promises stiff opposition before the season advances much farther.

The next game will be played on Friday at Boyle Street with the Packers meeting the Crush [illegible] starting at 6.30 p.m.

Yesterday: Pats and Don played a thrilling game of pursuit but Pats refuses to divulge her identity. Don is fast falling in love with her.

CHAPTER IX

PATS and Don drove out the Boston Post road in the late afternoon sunshine. She kept telling herself, "I'm sitting beside my husband and he loves me," but the words failed to click in her benumbed brain. She and Don were lovers; nothing counted against that. They loved and the world was lost in unthinking rapture.

"You look so sweet," he said huskily. "I think of you every minute of the day and you fill my dreams at night, but when I see you I realize all over again how lovely you are."

"Don—." The name slipped out and his hand covered hers for a moment. "You can't mean that. Why—I might be anybody."

"You are my whole life now. It doesn't matter who you used to be. You see," he went on gently. "I have never been in love before and I'm taking it rather hard."

"It can't be love."

"It is love and I'm [illegible] earnest. Tomorrow I shall tell Patricia, and very soon, in a few days, I think, I shall be free again."

"But why should you think I want you to be free?"

"I only know that I must be free. I want the right to make you [illegible] me, to protect you." Every [illegible] in Pats' being yearned toward Don. Don thought she needed protection. Even with her identity [illegible] in mystery he wanted her for his wife. It had all been simpler than her maddest hopes. Half inclined to tell him the truth, she [illegible].

It seemed so flat, so ridiculous to say, "I am your wife, Don." Such an anti-climax [illegible] of a thousand explanations. A little nagging fear warned her that the perfection of [illegible] might be shattered by such a revelation. So she drifted on the blissful tide.

• • •

They had tea before a blazing fire in a small white cottage. Sitting side by side on an old Duncan Fife sofa they drank tea from exquisite Spode cups. A [illegible] soft-spoken gentle-woman served them. Twilight fell [illegible] lingered, caught in the [illegible] and magic of newly awakened love. [illegible]

"Darling [illegible] you." And [illegible] lips, fiercely [illegible] and [illegible]

"I've kissed so many [illegible]" he said, half laughing [illegible] I've really never kissed [illegible]

Pats nodded [illegible] Tomorrow—at the [illegible] Vague [illegible]

Pats quickly crossed the [illegible] She saw a man nea[illegible] taxi followed [illegible] Fifth avenue. [illegible]

After breakfast the next morning Don broached the subject of their marriage contract. He [illegible] Pats that he loved someone [illegible] be free to protect her [illegible] ed the announcement, acknowledg[illegible] a few [illegible] be ended.

Pats took a walk in the park to think things over. She walked [illegible] she must tell Don. As proof of [illegible] astounding news she would produce the wig and glasses. Step by step she rehearsed her lines. [illegible] the back of her mind. Could she [illegible] Don of her love? And [illegible] not his love turn to weary [illegible] he had been duped? In a state of [illegible] back to the hotel. In the lobby the manager asked if he might see her privately for a few moments.

His grievance was Rosie. He apologetically explained that her account was getting out of hand. He had spoken to her repeatedly and [illegible] impression that she was Mr. Monteray's guest. Quite obviously the manager believed that Rosie had been "putting something over" [illegible] of getting the bill paid by appealing to Mrs. Monteray. [illegible] husband.

Pats explained that Mr. Monteray was in no way responsible for Mrs. Akers but signified [illegible] settle the account [illegible] Rosie spent not another [illegible] Pats opened her checkbook. The amount was rather staggering [illegible]

DOROTHY DIX Says:

DEAR MISS DIX—Don't you think [illegible] would be a great deal less divorce if, before they married, young people would ask themselves [illegible] spend the balance of my life with [illegible] her?

A MAN

Answer:

[illegible] other and ascertain what it was that [illegible] that particular girl or [illegible] comes to our [illegible] attracted to one [illegible] and repelled [illegible] are of equal worth and have equal [illegible]

[illegible] tangible about her [illegible] that made [illegible] had met, but somehow [illegible]

And the same way with women. No girl knows why she falls in love with Tom instead of Harry. It just happens. That's all. A lad she never saw before, and of whose good or bad qualities she is totally ignorant, comes whistling down the street. She gets up and follows him because she knows intuitively somehow he is her man.

As a matter of fact, we don't love people for their virtues. No man falls in love with a girl because she is a good cook, or because she [illegible] Sunday school, or because she [illegible] because she is the sort of a girl who would make a good wife. On the contrary, he is far more likely to fall in love with some little [illegible] gibbet who is pretty and attractive and lively [illegible]

Nor does a girl fall in love with a man because he is settled and [illegible] to fall in love [illegible] light foot and a nimble tongue and [illegible]

[illegible] know how to do a thing on [illegible]

Or we would marry the fat rich widower who is a pillar in the church, instead of the wild youth whose very presence makes life gay and exciting. But would we be happier if we did, and if we married for our heads instead of our hearts?

[illegible]

At [illegible] Pats, leaving the hotel [illegible] outrage?" she demanded. [illegible]

Your Children

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Have you a "bad boy" in your house? If so, perhaps you are wondering what to do about him. He does not react favorably to discipline, you say, and seems to have been born with an unmoral sense of right and wrong.

No one needs so much consideration or thought as this "bad" boy. Hundreds of volumes have been written about him. Reformatories are filled with his prototypes and fortunes are spent on reclaiming him to society. Yet, out of it all, emerges this fact, that almost no children are born without natural inhibitions against deliberate wrong—unmoral, we call it—and wiser handling in childhood could have prevented tragedy.

O. R. Barton

Naturally, our thoughts fly to the slums, and to those reared in an atmosphere of unfortunate home life. But our bad boys very frequently come from seemingly normal homes with all the usual advantages.

FLIES GET IN BEST OINTMENT

This is difficult to understand, but the truth remains that a bad boy (one, I mean, who is beyond the average heritage of pranks) is not always hungry or half-dressed, but may easily be the product of a refined and cultured home.

Children are born with certain tendencies. They may be of a pattern entirely different from their parents or brothers or sisters. I am not speaking here of inherited vices, because I feel that most traits of the sort are developed in the person himself, but rather that certain dispositions do not fit happily into the regular family or social channels.

There are many children who cannot conform to the things in life that other people accept quite contentedly. To go by schedule, to know each day what the next is to be like, and to do the same jobs over and over again become agony to them.

The buccaneer spirit is strong, and they live life in reverse. They prefer to breathe the charged air of hazard, rather than the tame atmosphere of the conventional.

They are not submitters, in other words, and to try to make them submit is only adding fuel to the flame.

HE NEEDS YOUR HELP

If by any chance there is such a free spirited boy in your family, that the world calls "bad," you may be able to control his destiny to a certain degree, but never will you or anyone else really possess him.

He needs to have an active life with certain independent liberties of his own. He will have to have room. Within reason he must be allowed to carry out his ideas and to experiment. The big thing is to keep him in sympathetic touch with his home, and to keep alive his faith in his people. Very tactfully, his tastes may be influenced, but he must feel that he is dictating his own policy. A large job for any parent, or teacher, I'll admit. He will be ruled by his heart, when he is ruled at all.

If he is a bully, to camouflage inferiority, then he is another type. We know what we have here and can put a finger on remedies. Or if he is secretly resenting conditions around him, we can usually help with this, too. But this other free spirit is different. He answers to no pattern. He is himself.

Study him, do what you can, and pray. He is headstrong, but not usually vicious. He will always heed you. Stay his friend.

What To Do

By Phyllis Belmont

You'll admit that a surprise party that is a surprise all around—to the guests and the surpris-ees—is a novelty. The guests will get their surprise when they receive their invitations, for this is the way they should read: To Mrs. Goodcook, who is noted for her Italian cookery—"You and a casserole of spaghetti are invited, etc., etc." To Miss Daintylady, who makes delicious sponge cake—"You and a large sponge cake, etc., etc.," and so on—"You and a pound of butter" to a man; "You and a dozen rolls" to another man; "You and a jar of your homemade pickles" to some one else. "You and a dozen bottles of ginger ale" to a group of bachelors. The invitations start the fun, which is brought to a climax when all the guests and the good things assembled to surprise Mr. and Mrs. Newly-wed. The same idea can be used in giving a shower to a bride-to-be and in any number of other exciting ways.

ONTARIO GAME WARDEN VICTIMS CHEAT DEATH

NAKINA, Ont., May 26.—Marooned in the bog, muskeg and tangled undergrowth of northern Ontario's jungle with little food and no firearms since April 11 four Toronto men were flown to safety over the week-end and boarded a train at Kapuskasing, bound for their homes.

The men were rescued none too soon as the last of their scanty food supply was finished Sunday. There was plenty of game but their firearms had been confiscated in the dead of winter by a game warden.

The four were John and Robert Grant, brothers, Bert Miller and Harold Smith, prospectors.

BOURASSA HITS IMPERIALISM, WAR OF EMPIRE

HAMILTON, Ont., May 26—Assumption 11,000,000 Canadians would be expected to commit themselves in fighting Great Britain's wars was one of the stumbling blocks toward understanding between the two Canadian races, Henri Bourassa, former M.P., for Labelle, said yesterday in addressing a joint meeting here of the Canadian Political Association and the Canadian Historical Association. He spoke on the sense of nationhood in French Canada.

He said there had been so much sentimental appeal to Canadians in the past, it now was time to appeal to their reason and common sense. He opposed any secession move, such as was reported from a group in Quebec, he said.

Canadians, however, "must not be beguiled by tea-cup conversations" in London, by appeals to their statesmen's vanity or by titles carefully distributed.

GIANT SHOWGIRL SUING BROTHER OF FANNY BRICE

NEW YORK, May 26.—Lois De Fee, towering Broadway showgirl, appeared in West Side court today with two black eyes and a broken nose and obtained a warrant for the arrest of Lou Brice, brother of Fanny Brice the comedienne, on a charge of assault.

Miss De Fee, six feet three inches tall and weighing 180 pounds, said Brice struck her in a night club May 20. She told the court the theatrical booking agent attempted to engage her in conversation and, not knowing him, she slapped his face.

The showgirl said Brice countered with a "rabbit punch" and followed up with a haymaker that broke her nose and left her with two "shiners."

Miss De Fee said she was 18, a native of Taylor, Texas, and said she had at one time sparred with Primo Carnera when he was heavyweight boxing champion.

RAIN PUTS OUT 3 FOREST FIRES

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, May 26.—Three entirely new forest fires were extinguished by the heavy rain over the week-end. Saturday morning a fire started a mile from Berger's shingle mill, seven miles north and burned all day. Friday a fire started in a jackpine grove half a mile from Ebel's sawmill, twenty miles south. A crew of fighters worked all Friday night and all day Saturday until the rain came.

The third fire was in the sparsely settled district ten miles north, but it was barely started before the rain. No farms were in immediate danger but some good timber was ruined, and pole fences burned.

THESE Changing Scenes—Pie-throwing is almost a lost art in Hollywood, but Hal Roach is a man of sentiment and keeps the custom alive in his comedies. I watch how it is done this week.

The film is "Pick Me a Star," a feature-length musical in which all the Roach favorites appear. The actor-targets are Mischa Auer, Jack Haley, Tommy Dugan and Harold Carlton.

Four hundred pies are on hand and eight changes of linen for each actor. The pies, blueberry and custard, are bought from a bakery, but are treated at the studio with a further application of whipped cream and powdered sugar. The powdered sugar is to make them stick better to the face.

Except in the closeups, where it is impossible to miss, the pies are thrown by two super prop men, Bob Sanders and Charles Oelze. They have been at it for years, and can make a direct hit in the face at 15 feet.

Director Edward Sedgewick explains that, to get the proper effect, it is necessary to take the victims by surprise. Even oldtimers are apt to flinch when they see the pie coming, and this is the first experience for Auer, Haley, Dugan and Carlton.

Sedgewick works a ruse. He has the players rehearse the scene several times up to the point where the pies are thrown. Then he takes it several more times, calling "Cut" just before the barrage.

Finally, when the victims' suspicions are lulled, he gives a secret signal to the prop men. They let go.

The expressions of the four players as they get the gooey mess right in the face are something to watch.

Tommy Dugan, however, is a quick thinker. As the shot ends, he drops to one knee, throws his arms out and lifts up his blueberry smeared features.

"Mammy!" he shouts.

The company howls.

Open Verdict In 'Peg Child's Death: Still Is Mystery

WINNIPEG, May 26.—A coroner's jury returned an open verdict at the adjourned inquest last night into the death of five-year-old Julia Johnson whose remains were found March 22 in a rusty boiler in an abandoned warehouse nine years after she disappeared from her home here.

The jurors said they were "entirely dissatisfied with the conflicting evidence submitted regarding the keys to the Sutherland avenue warehouse" where the child's body was found by a workman dismantling the boiler.

Nesting Robin On Skeleton Zepp Is Omen Of Good

LAKEHURST, N.J., May 26.—A survivor of the Hindenburg crew espied a mother robin building a nest in the blackened skeleton of the once majestic airship and saw in it a good omen.

Heinrich Bauer visited the mass of charred debris, saw a blue egg in the nest built on a sheltered girder and remarked:

"It is a good omen. The Hindenburg is dead, but from its remains springs new life. So, lighter-than-air craft shall take on a new life."

HOUSING PLAN IS CRITICIZED AT CITY MEET

Council Adopts Home-Building Principle—Rejects Relief Scheme

Recommendation by the civic work-for-wages committee that Edmonton adopt a $65,000 municipal housing program and that in addition to this the city commence construction of small cabin homes for occupancy by relief cases, was subjected to hot criticism by several aldermen at city council's meeting Tuesday night. In the end, aldermen endorsed the principle of a housing project, but rejected the proposed erection of homes for unemployed.

The committee's recommendation, made on a motion by Ald. J. H. Ogilvie, provided that an expected federal contribution of $35,000 for the relief of unemployment be used for a municipal home-building plan on a location to be selected later. The balance of the estimated expenditure would be made by the city.

WANT PLANS

While willing to support the principle of the recommendation aldermen refused to pass the proposal before plans and specifications were placed before them.

Dealing with the committee's suggestion that commissioners be authorized to commence construction of one duplex and one four-room home as a start in a project calling for the building of 25 homes for unemployed at a cost of about $500 each, council voted it down.

SAYS SLUM TYPE

Ald. Walter Clevely objected to such low-cost homes, declaring they would be of the slum type. The minimum should be $2,000 each, he said.

Agreeing, Ald. Elisha East said this type of home should have at least four rooms and should be fully modern.

Ald. Ogilvie, a member of the work-for-wages committee, objected to the opposition being shown by aldermen to the commitee's recommendations which had been formulated after many hours consideration. The housing scheme would employ relief labor and thus cut down relief cases, he said.

STEAMBOAT IS STILL KING OF NORTH RIVERS

The boat was built of spruce, locally cut, and sawn into planks with a pit saw. The large boiler was hauled in sections by team from Calgary to Athabasca Landing from where it was taken by scows down the Athabasca river. Completed in 1887, the vessel took its trial trip up the Mackenzie with Captain Smith as its master. The young Thurso Scot was also aboard and served as its mechanic and second engineer for ten years.

MOST MEMORABLE ADVENTURE

Though the S.S. Wrigley was the first steamboat of its kind on the Mackenzie, it was not the first steamer to ply northern waters. The S.S. Graham was built in 1883 at Fort Chipewayan for use on Lake Athabasca. John Sutherland also gave a hand at building that ship.

During his 50 years of steaming up and down the Mackenzie, John Sutherland's most memorable adventure, strangely, did not occur on water. It happened during the winter after the Wrigley was built.

The gaunt wolf of starvation was howling at the gateway of Fort Simpson. The arduous task of saving the helpless inhabitants fell on the shoulders of young Sutherland. Accompanied by three Indians and a missionary he started by dog team for Fort Wrigley, 150 miles north, to secure food.

After three days of desperate mushing through a swirling blizzard, the party arrived at Wrigley only to find the post manager, his family, and two men, on the verge of starvation. Not even a single morsel of dog food was left.

With two posts to save instead of one, Sutherland led his party to an Indian encampment west of the Mackenzie where they secured a plentiful supply of meat. On their return to Fort Wrigley the agent and his family were maintaining the dim spark of life in their bodies by consuming a thin jelly made by boiling bear rugs from which the hair had been scraped.

FATE PLAYED ITS PART

Leaving a large portion of their meat at Wrigley, the heroic group of men set their faces towards Fort Simpson with barely enough meat for their own use during the return trip. But fate played into their hands. When food was down to a dangerously low ebb and the future seemed black, they came across the bodies of two moose, freshly slaughtered by timber wolves.

Fort Simpson was saved!

Engineer Sutherland's most serious river accident happened during August of 1935. He was then chief of the engine room on the Northland Echo which was pushing three barges down Slave river to Fitzgerald. Twelve miles from the fort, the boat struck a submerged rock, and though the impact was above the water line, the shock sprung a knuckle on the opposite side. Water poured into the engine room, but the speedy work of the crew by caulking the gaps with small sacks of flour, halted the inrush of the river sufficiently to permit the steamer to limp safely into port.

The chief drawback in river transportation in the north is ice. Late last fall a large 100-ton motor barge was caught by the freeze-up while transporting winter supplies across Lake Athabasca to Goldfields, Sask. The threat of starvation in the active mining settlement was warded off when airplanes picked up most of the essential food stuffs from the stranded barge.

NO CUT-THROAT COMPETITION

There is no cut-throat competition between air and river transportation in the north. Air freighting opened up the country for mining, thus benefitting water transportation by increasing the tonnage of freight, while water freighting makes it possible for 'planes to operate extensively by hauling in their fuel supply from the railheads.

Anyone who takes the 18-day trip from Waterways, Alberta, to Tuktoyaktuk, in the land of the midnight sun, 1,850 miles down river in the Arctic ocean, realizes what vast progress has been made in the development of the north since the advent of the steam transport. And many millions of tons of water will empty into the Arctic before the river boat will be ready to relinquish its crown as "King of the Mackenzie."

Mermaid Plan For 1937 Here

An exhilarating model for the Summer Girl of 1937 is this shapely siren, Mitzi Uehlein. Her proportions will be the ideal by which some 2,000 California bathing beauties will be judged in the selection of "Miss California" during the pageantry of the Venice Mardi Gras in August.

John D.'s Body Reaches Home: Funeral Is Set

TARRYTOWN, N.Y., May 26. — The body of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., arrived from Florida in the family's private car last night and was carried to his Pocantico Hills castle. The coffin was placed in the huge reception room overlooking the Hudson.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and his five sons, two of whom had just completed a plane dash from Panama, headed a throng of several hundred persons at the railroad siding when the special engine, drawing only the private car and one empty coach, pulled in.

Burial will be in Cleveland on Thursday.

Experimental Bus Service to North Edmonton Fixed

Bus service for North Edmonton and Calgary Trail districts was an issue dealt with Tuesday night by city council, which finally recommended that a bus route be operated in North Edmonton for one month commencing in June as an experiment. Application by Calgary Trail residents was referred to the finance committee for further consideration, and commissioners were instructed to report on the cost of buses.

Commissioner R. J. Gibb reported that the bus which is operated on the Varsity route would be out of service in this district during June and suggested that it be used in the North Edmonton area for trial purposes.

The proposed route would be between Alberta avenue and the Transit hotel, via the Fort Trail.

STAND BY PLEDGE

Appearing on behalf of Calgary trail residents, E. W. Dean declared this district had been promised a bus service by a former city council and felt that council should now carry out its promise. He reported that between 68 and 72 avenues and 103 and 110 streets there were 1,012 city-owned, utility-served lots which could be sold if the district were given an adequate transportation service.

In addition to these, there were 1,000 parcels of land south of 68 avenue which would be enhanced in value as a result of bus service. Total value of the property was given as $124,000.

Mr. Dean said a petition requesting a bus service had been signed by 500 persons.

Favoring buses instead of street cars, Ald. Walter Clevely visualized the day when the street railway would be reorganized to make way for bus operation — the modern trend.

VACANT PROPERTY

Ald. Ogilvie warned that indiscriminate operation of bus routes would tend to spread the city's settlement. There was enough vacant property within a mile and a half of the post office to provide accommodation for many times the population it now had.

While admitting that in his opinion the Calgary Trail district had the best claim for buses, he was opposed to the principle of bus operation because the city's past experience had shown deficits on this type of transportation.

Ald. Hugh J. Macdonald pointed out that deficits resulting from bus service provided residents on the outskirts of the city, was being paid by taxpayers who lived closer in. He felt that a bus route should be self-sustaining, and persons using this service should pay a fare tariff which would cover the cost of operation.

LOCAL POLICE PUSH HUNT FOR SAFE CRACKERS

Police are still searching for the safe from the National System of Baking offices, Chief of Detectives R. Sutherland announced Wednesday. A re-check with company officials revealed that the safe contained about $275 instead of the $400 as first reported. Standard Brands reported, however, that their cash box contained about $185 instead of the $80 which was first reported to police, so the total week-end haul by the yeggs is unchanged.

No new arrests have been made, and Dexter Lewers, 21-year-old youth from Vancouver, who was arrested and charged with the North Star Oil and the National System of Baking "jobs" was released on bail of $500 Tuesday afternoon. He will appear in police court for preliminary hearing of the charges next Wednesday.

Toronto Discovers Citizen Is Knight

TORONTO, May 26—Toronto citizens didn't know until today that Henry Herbert Couzens, manager of the Toronto Transportation commission from 1921 to 1924, had been knighted. He made the fact known before he left today for England.

In the honors list of May 10 appeared the name of Henry Couzens of Rio de Janeiro, vice-president of the Brazilian Traction company. He lived in South America for several years. He is a Knight of the British Empire.

POLICE CHIEF IN DOG HOUSE: HE SEES SPOTS

Mutt Contest Held at Tivoli by CFRN Attracts Large Crowd

Genial Police Chief A. G. Shute, terror of the city's wrongdoers, spent a "mutty" afternoon at the Tivoli Ballroom Tuesday when he wanted to decide which mutt had the largest number of spots on its unkempt body.

The chief of police was one of the judges at the mutt contest staged by radio station CFRN Tuesday and he had lots of fun. So did the spectators.

When he first came into the hall, he espied a half-shaved mutt —evidently the owner lost the shears when he reached the tummy —and brightly remarked, "Oh, boy, you better take him away, he's a lion and am I afraid."

But even brave, kind-hearted chiefs of police should avoid tempting the gods.

CHIEF COUNTS SPOTS

A few minutes later the chief was busily engaged in counting the number of spots on mutts—yea, and actually counting them all over, too.

Well, a tiny rosy-cheeked lad of six or seven lugged his mutt to the judges' table, and taking the universe as his audience, loudly announced that his dog had 22 spots.

The chief never did like dogmatic people, so he began counting with deliberate care and accuracy.

"You haven't got 22 spots on this mutt. Whom are you kidding?" he snapped in his best police court manner.

"Oh, yeah," growled the youngster. "That's what you say. Look!"

And he jerked the mutt upwards, gave Chief Shute a look that even an enraged city editor couldn't duplicate, and commanded the chief to look at the exposed tummy of the mutt and begin counting pronto.

Edmonton's genial chief can obey commands as well as give them. He counted. The mutt had 22 spots.

DICK RICE LAUGHS

When the Chief finished, G. R. A. Rice, manager of CFRN, began to laugh so energetically his ribs rattled.

But the Chief had his turn when the other judges tried to measure the mutt with the longest ears. The mutts didn't see why they should have heir ears measured when a bunch of ladies whom they knew had much longer ears and were left alone in undisturbed tranquility.

So they skirted around the ballroom—covered with canvas and frightened dancing fans—and refused to stretch their ears. Finally the Chief got into action and that settled that.

The dogs were measured but just now remains a secret to the public because it is still a mystery to this scribe.

For the sake of harmony, it's best not to describe the agony of measuring a dog's tail when the mutt decides he doesn't want it measured and promptly sits down on it.

Even Susan Agar of radio fame was for once barren of suggestion and Charlie Morrison just looked and groaned.

USUAL COMPLAINT

The reporter of course had no ideas on the subject. Whenever he does get an idea, he instantly proclaims a public holiday to commemorate the miracle.

Besides he had already been insulted by two pretty-eyed babes in muttland.

A lassie in red with blond hair—and the editor says this reporter cannot describe a woman's appearance—said to her petite companion, "Let's go over to see the monkey afterwards."

Never having been in the Tivoli before, and not knowing or caring if it contained a monkey or not, the reporter paid no attention to the remark.

Ten minutes later he looked up and there were the two little girls staring intently at him.

PRIZES AWARDED
